College Lists Honors

List of winners of 32 scholarships valued at approximately $3,200 was released yesterday by Victoria College authorities.

The scholarships, plus gold watches to two outstanding students and book prizes to other leading students will be presented at the annual college assembly, October 17.

George H. Forbes, 19, leader in first-year examination results with a mark of 92.8 per cent, was a multiple scholarship winner, earning the Percy H. Elliott Memorial Scholarship of $130, the Quita Nichol Bursary of $100 and the British-America Paint Co. Scholarship of $100.

He will also be presented with a gold watch from the Gruen Watch Co. as leading first-year student, and a book prize for first-year English.

MERIT, PROMISE

The Elliott Memorial scholarship is awarded to a student of outstanding merit and promise in one specific field of study and the Nichol bursary for excellence in first-year French. The British America award goes to the best male student in first year.

The latter scholarship went to Harold N. Halvorson by reversion as scholarship winners are restricted to a total of $300 in actual prizes.

Beverley J. Fulton, 20, 930 Bewdley Avenue, highest ranking second-year student with a mark of 89.5, won the major Sidney Roofing Paper Company scholarship of $250, awarded to the leading student of the second year continuing university studies.

She was also awarded the Royal Institute and Frank Eaton Memorial Scholarship of $50 for the highest standing in second-year English.

Birks' gold wrist watch presented annually by Henry Birks & Sons (B.C.) Ltd., Victoria, to a first class student who has, in the opinion of the committee on prizes and scholarships, made a valuable contribution to student life was awarded to Geoffrey R. Conway.

HISTORY STUDY

He also won the Kathleen Agnew scholarship of $100 established for the purpose of stimulating the study of the history of Canada.

This scholarship went to Denis A. Godson by reversion.

John A. Coates, R.R. 1, Langford, 28-year-old naval veteran and father of four, who placed second in second-year examinations, was awarded the Spencer Scholarship of $100 given annually to the leading student of humanities in second year and continuing university studies. He also won a $100 Hudson's Bay Company economics scholarship.

A change was announced in one scholarship. To honor the late Mrs. John W. Church, the John Wesley Church Memorial Scholarship will be known as the John Wesley and Emily E. Church Memorial. It is presented to a first-year student for excellence in the classics.

Full list of scholarships and winners will be found on page 15.

May Queen Enjoys Brief Reign

Strike in Empress Hotel Now Appears Definite

Guests Warned to Go If Late Meetings Fail

"It looks though the strike is on," said R. R. Smeal, national representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Workers last night after a meeting between the union and management of the Empress Hotel.

"Negotiations have come to an end," he said.

"The company appears adamant in its position on hours of work," he added. "We have tried every approach to settle the difficulty."

Permanent guests of the hotel were warned last night that they would have to move in the event of a strike.

Notices were posted in the hotel over the signature of manager T. F. Chester, advising guests that the management can not offer accommodation if the strike is called.

Strike is scheduled for midnight Tuesday unless a new promise is reached before that time.

A representative of management said last night: "No progress was made at the meeting tonight."

Another meeting will be held today at 10:30 a.m. to discuss protection of property in the event of a strike.

Labor relations board has arranged a further meeting for Tuesday at 5 p.m. between management and the union. Both sides have indicated they will attend the meeting.

French Reds Raided By Police

PARIS, May 31 (AP)—Police flying squads seized thousands of documents and 100 weapons today in raids on Communist offices throughout France.

The main business was to obtain evidence supporting the government's charge that plans for a Red revolution were behind the rioting here Wednesday night against Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The raids began soon after dawn. Steel-helmeted police struck in Paris, Lyon, Marseille, Clermont-Ferrand, Bordeaux and La Rochelle.

But it was quickly clear the French Reds, who recognize only Italy as having a large Communist party west of the iron curtain, had not been taken entirely off guard.

At several points chimneys of party headquarters were smoking with the fires of burning papers before the police squads reached the scene.

The Communists had been on the alert since their secretary-general, Jacques Duclos, was jailed in the anti-Ridgway rioting and accused of plotting against France's internal security.

The interior ministry said important stocks of weapons were seized.

Small Yacht Takes Big Prize

Ono, shown here having a little spinnaker trouble, took first place on corrected time in the Swiftsure Lightship Race. Sailed by Herbert Day, Seattle, the K-38 sloop was one of the smallest boats in the race. She seemed on her way to the honors last year, but missed the lightship and sailed too far out to sea.

Reds Tighten Berlin Pinch, Seize Two Border Hamlets

BERLIN, May 31 (AP)—A new Red squeeze tightened on West Berlin today.

The German Communist People's Police nipped two little islands of freedom on the outskirts of the city.

West Berlin was gripped by its worst case of jitters since the Russian blockade of 1948-49 as the hamlets of Buergerablage and Steinstuecken fell victims of the program to seal the Soviet occupation zone from the Allied sectors and Allied West Germany.

The People's Police moved into Buergerablage just inside the Russian zone but administratively attached to the British sector of Berlin, and ordered its 43 families to get out.

Later the police stationed a blockade on the 50 houses hamlet of Steinstuecken and cut it off from the American sector to which it has belonged.

The worst could come Sunday midnight when the East German Communist government has announced it will institute new rules requiring special passes for all Germans traveling in the Soviet zone.

This could mean a virtual blockade if the Communists decide such passes also are required of truckers, bargemen and railmen who carry on Berlin's lifeline traffic with the west across 110 miles of the Soviet zone.

When the Communists announced their new transit visa requirements Tuesday they said details would be discussed later. So far there has been no elaboration and people are on edge.

It is all part of the Communist campaign against the peace contract to ally West Germany in Western defense, which the Reds say will mean civil war. They contend they are setting up security units to keep out "western spies, saboteurs and black market leaders."

Jeweled Crowns Stolen From Shrine in Brooklyn

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Nocturnal thieves invaded a $2,000,000 Roman Catholic shrine in Brooklyn and stole two gem-encrusted gold crowns donated by hundreds of women during the Second World War as an offering to peace.

Church officials, who discovered the theft today, said the two crowns were insured for $100,000 but their "moral value cannot be replaced."

The crowns were embodied in a painting of the Virgin Mary and the Christ Child that hung above and behind the main altar in the Regina Pacis votive shrine.

Police said the thieves sawed through a grill to reach the glittering crowns, hung by hooks over the heads of the Virgin and the Child.

The pastor of St. Rosala Church said the thieves were believed to have hidden Friday and emerged during the night.

They passed up two other jeweled ornaments on the painting, a diamond bracelet on the cuff of the Virgin's robe and a diamond necklace for the collar.

Eisenhower Flying Home

PARIS, May 31 (AP)—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower today flew home for the political wars.

The General and Mrs. Eisenhower are due in Washington Sunday afternoon after a night's rest at Stephenville, Nfld., where they landed tonight.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, his successor in Europe, was one of the last to give him a farewell handshake here.

Military colleagues and his supporters as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination will welcome him in Washington.

There will come two days of conferences with President Truman and others, then he will change to civilian clothing and head for his home town of Abilene, Kas.

Pinball Bandit Brought to Bay

Afraid of shooting because of crowded streets, a Victoria police constable brought a pinball machine bandit to bay after a two-block chase early this morning.

Const. Herbert Clarke chased the man from the Topper Cafe, 741 Yates, where he had pried open the cash box from a pinball machine, to the corner of Johnson and Douglas, before apprehending him.

Const. Clarke said that he shouted to the suspect to halt and drew his revolver, but did not fire because of the people on the street.

Const. Clarke brought the man to the police station where the pinball machine cashbox was recovered and a charge of theft was laid.

Action Planned By Non-Whites

CAPETOWN, May 31 (CP)—Leaders of non-whites in South Africa are planning new blows at the Nationalist government of Daniel Malan.

The high command of a passive resistance movement today called on the 10,000,000 Negro, Indian and mixed-blood peoples of South Africa to protest against the "racial arrogance and tide of fascism" in Malan's government.

They said a well-disciplined and non-violent struggle against racial laws considered unjust by the non-whites will be launched June 26 throughout South Africa.

A statement said five members of the organization will set off the campaign next week by defying government orders to retire from public activities on the ground they are Communists. They expect to go to jail.

Seattle Craft Wins Swiftsure Classic

Herbert Day's Ono won the Swiftsure race yesterday, finishing 10th in the fleet, but first on corrected time. Dr. Phil Smith's P.C.C. sloop Gossip was second on corrected time and first in class A, after finishing seventh.

Ono, a 38-foot K-38 sloop from Seattle, was first boat over the starting line and held an early lead. She later slipped back to the middle of the fleet, but held a threatening position throughout. One of the smallest boats, she had a four-hour handicap on the fastest of the big yachts.

John Graham's 67-foot yawl, Maruffa, was first over the finish line at 6.25 p.m., more than 31 hours after the start of the 130-mile race around the Swiftsure Lightship.

Second boat in, half an hour later, was Franklin Eddy's 52-foot yawl, Dorade. She placed third on corrected time, one ahead of Maruffa, to take the class AA prize. Dorade was first to round the lightship, but lost her lead on the trip home.

The yachts made good time to the lightship, after a drifting start, traveling much of the way rail down in 20-to-25-mile an hour winds. Leaders rounded the lightship shortly after midnight, but ran into lighter winds on the homeward lap.

H. A. Wallace's Buccaneer III, sailed by "Red Astie," placed ninth, behind eight Seattle yachts.

Capt. W. B. Holms' Dragoon, the other Victoria entry, was 13th boat to reach the finish line at harbor mouth, but she sailed on without crossing.

Bill Morrow's Elusive and F. J. Whitcroft's Tomboy, both Roedde class yachts from Vancouver, C. P. Paschall's Revenge, Seattle, and G. Teale's Revenge, Tacoma, had not finished late last night. All are small sloops.

Order of finish on corrected time of those in by midnight was: Ono, Gossip, Dorade, Maruffa; Aalatola, Charlie Krisbe, Red Jacket, George Parsons, Westward Ho, John Helsell, Rebel, A. D. Sherwood, Buccaneer, Circe, Ray Cooke, Seattle, Nautilus III, Harbine, Munroe, Tacoma; I, Apache, Howard, Richmond.

High School Champions Celebrate

These two Victoria High School athletes may be excused for their antics at the conclusion of the provincial inter-high school track and field meet at Victoria High School yesterday. Ted Whan (top) retained boys' aggregate crown and Chris Boyd amassed a total of 16 points to win the girls' title. (See story and results on Page 8.)—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

New Island Born; Urge Quick Claim

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., May 31 (CP)—A man who claims he saw the birth of an island thinks someone should plant a flag on it "before the Russians claim it."

Neil S. Jamieson, 21, third officer aboard the 7,500-ton British freighter Queen Anne, now berthed here, told the story today.

He, and all the other officers and crew of the freighter said they saw the volcanic island emerge from the ocean floor the afternoon of May 8 about 200 miles northwest of Cape Engano, at the northern tip of Luzon in the Philippines.

"It was an awe-inspiring sight to see the eruption with its pall of black smoke and steam and millions of gallons of water being thrown up," he said. "My first reaction was disbelief and we were all rather skeptical of what was taking place.

"At first I thought it was a storm in the distance," he said.

From a distance of five miles, the ship's company said they saw the 1,000-foot-high rock emerge from the sea. Jamieson estimated it to be three-quarters of a mile wide.

Islands have been known to appear and sometimes disappear again in this area of the North Pacific.

Reds' Leader Jailed to "Cool Off"

KOJE ISLAND, June 1 (Sunday) (AP)—Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner today cracked down on the North Korean Communist officer responsible for last Thursday's demonstration in prison compound 66.

The Red officer, a lieutenant colonel, was placed in special custody and not permitted to return to his compound. Prisoners there had attempted to cut a hole through a barbed wire fence. The demonstration was broken up by 100 British and U.S. troops with tear gas.

Boatner issued the order when the officer swaggered into the Koje prison camp commander's office to report on the demonstration.

A public relations officer said the Red's attitude was so insulting that Boatner ordered him jailed "to cool off."

The public relations officer said: "You can say that he has been put in pokey for being insulting to the general in the general's own office this morning."

A prisoner interpreter was then sent back to the compound to spread the word.

Compound 66 is filled with North Korean Communist officers and their orderlies. The group is one of the most truculent on this stormy isle.

Today's special jailing of the North Korean officer was the first time Boatner or any previous Koje commander ever clamped down on a prisoner for not showing the deference usually expected of a prisoner talking to his warden.

Jailing of the lieutenant colonel left compound 66 with only "minor league leadership." Meanwhile, work was rushed on new and smaller compounds to house the rebellious Communist prisoners of war.

Yacht Victim Washed Ashore

SEATTLE, May 31 (AP)—A body identified as that of Donald Card, one of seven persons lost aboard the yacht Prelude which disappeared in North Puget Sound last week, was found today on the east shore of Blakely Island in the San Juan group.

Four bodies of those lost when the Prelude vanished were recovered previously. They included Card's wife.

Congressmen Mourn For Vanishing Mule

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—The mule, a southern congressman observed today, is going to the dogs. In fact, most of them already have gone there as dog food at two cents a pound.

Representative John Rankin (Dem., Miss.) described to a reporter how pet caterers have swarmed into the cotton belt and toted away the hard-tailed ornaments of Dixie's mule barns.

The mule, he said, is a casualty of the machine age. The new south can hardly spare zoo room for a hammer-headed hybrid whose carburetion system burns timothy and oats needed for an expanding dairy industry.

Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem., Mo.), whose district tailored a special heavy-duty mule to cotton planters' specifications, confirmed that the tractor had almost completely displaced it.

"The bottom has dropped out of the mule market," he mourned. "For a majority of the farmers in my county, mules were once the big cash crop. Now the mule industry has practically disappeared."

"Look up the record of the mule in the Second World War," he advised. "Find out who built the Burma Road and who hauled the artillery over the Italian mountains. Remember that no mule has ever engaged in a dormitory raid or written a singing commercial."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Is it possible to be too honest? Don't fly into a virtuous rage and pound your fist on the table. Take a short journey into the wonderland of politics, where trees grow with their roots in the air and all things are possible.

Under the label of the B.C. Liberal Association, Premier Byron Johnson inserted a political message in the press. It said in part:

"With regard to co-insurance, the Liberal party in convention requested the abolition of co-insurance. My personal view is that the abolition of co-insurance at this time will jeopardize the continuance of hospital insurance. Time alone will tell. But for the welfare of the people hospital insurance must remain."

That paragraph was part of a longish statement, and many readers probably skimmed over it without thinking of its astonishing significance.

Here is a party leader using the party's own advertising space to denounce the policy which the party laid down by majority vote. Even in the wonderland of politics such a thing is most rare and strange. I doubt if it ever happened before. Mother Goose could have made some funny verses about it.

* * *

How did the premier paint himself into such a sticky corner? Having no inside knowledge, I couldn't say for sure. At a guess I would say he did it by being too honest.

The party voted for a policy which he thought was bad. When it was proposed, the premier frankly said it was bad. When it was passed, he kept on saying the same thing.

He has not budged an inch from the position which his conscience told him to take. Now that the election battle is raging, the premier keeps cool like the stout warrior he is, and shouts the same battle cry: "Huzza for co-insurance."

Most of his followers battling at his side utter a different battle cry: "Down with co-insurance." Some, however, agree with him. Speaking of the three Victoria candidates, Mrs. J. L. Gates, president of the B.C. Liberal Association said, "Our three candidates stand behind Premier Byron Johnson on hospital insurance and co-insurance."

So here we have two factions of one party campaigning with opposite aims. Certainly there are other and probably larger issues in the election than co-insurance, and a voter would be a fool to make up his mind on the strength of that alone.

But when a party and its leader publicly disagree, what is a plain citizen to think?

* * *

"This above all—to thine own self be true," Shakespeare said it, and the premier undoubtedly lives by it. He is being true to his own convictions, but in doing so, is he denying the second part of the adage?

"And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

To Help Sunday School

Garden Party Plans Include Baby Show

A baby show with prizes for two age groups will be a feature of the View Royal Sunday School garden party in the gardens of John E. Goldring, 320 Bessborough Avenue, from 2 to 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Sunday school teachers, sponsors of the party said 75 entry forms had already been sent out and they were hoping for a large entry of young fry.

First prize in each group, age six months and under, and four to 18 months, will be a portrait by a child photography specialist. Second prizes are silver spoons.

The list of entries includes at least one set of twins and a special prize has been established for this division.

The baby show is part of a garden party program aimed at raising $1,500 toward the stage of construction on the basement of a new Anglican Church in View Royal.

It is planned to use the basement as a Sunday school and youth activity centre while the church proper is being built, and the teachers hope to get the basement Sunday school started this fall.

They organized the garden party after struggling to conduct Sunday school for 150 youngsters with makeshift equipment in the small community hall.

The teachers said youngsters were falling off rickety chairs and tables collapsed so often they spent a substantial part of each Sunday school period wrestling with the furniture.

Besides the baby show, there will be a miniature train ride for the youngsters lined up for the party. The adults will be offered goods from home cooking to white elephants for sale at stalls in the gardens.

The sponsors hope to attract at least 1,000 visitors to the garden party and have invited council members from municipalities in this area and Esquimalt candidates in the coming provincial election.

Entry forms for the baby show may be picked up at Little and Taylor's, View Royal Pharmacy, Law's Groceteria and the Suburban Coffee Shop, Belmont Road, or at the garden party.

Bus travelers are advised to take the Victoria West-Helmcken Road bus to Helmcken Road and follow direction arrows from there.

Bishop Attacks Handling Of Plebiscite on Liquor

VANCOUVER, May 31 (CP)—Bishop Godfrey P. Gower, head of the Anglican Diocese of New Westminster, yesterday criticized the provincial government for its handling of the June 12 liquor plebiscite.

Speaking to 120 ministers and laymen, Bishop Gower, who is also president of the Alcohol Research Council, said the plebiscite is "an invitation to mobocracy" and "an adolescent way to settle the liquor problem in B.C."

(Voters will be asked whether they favor sale of liquor by the glass "in premises licensed for such purposes.")

The bishop said the B.C. government is "evading its responsibility to govern by appealing for a decision to an electorate which has not been given the necessary facts."

"If we are not satisfied with our present liquor system and we are not—we will not be satisfied merely by increasing facilities for liquor distribution, which is all that is indicated in the forthcoming plebiscite."

CONTINUED PRESSURE

Regardless of the outcome of the June 12 voting, he said, the council will continue to "press strenuously" for research and education on alcohol.

"Alcoholism is regarded by authorities as the fourth major public health problem," the bishop continued, "and the work of the council is not a question of wet versus dry.

"The council treats alcohol as a social problem with grave moral consequences for the whole community and we feel the citizens should be fully informed on the subject."

Toward this end, he said, the council is already preparing an extensive and thorough brief for presentation to the government.

Foulkes To See Gen. Eisenhower

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP)—Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the Canadian chiefs-of-staff, will fly to Washington Sunday for a final talk with General Eisenhower on his relinquishing of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization command. General Foulkes is chairman of the N.A.T.O. military committee.

Lodge Protests Two Issues

Convention of the Right Worshipful Grand Orange Lodge of B.C. went on record recently as being "against using public funds for separate or private schools" and "against the opening of any more avenues for the sale of liquor."

J. S. Humphries of Victoria was elected deputy grand secretary and grand marshal, and Rev. T. H. McAllister was named grand auditor.

Carpenters' Business Agent Says Members Undergo Examination, Serve Apprenticeship

ON THE LABOR FRONT

BY BILL MAVOR

Persons seeking membership in the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (A.F.L.—T.L.C.) must undergo an examination before a union board, it was disclosed yesterday.

New members either must have served four years in the trade or have equivalent of four years when entering the union, said Victor Midgely, union business agent in Victoria.

New members go before an examining board which reports to the union and the application is voted on.

The union also works in co-operation with the department of education on apprenticeship training, it was reported.

Mr. Midgley noted, however, that a constitutional clause passed by the general executive states that grading of wages is demoralizing and no union should adopt the principle.

His comment came after a conciliation board's unanimous suggestion that employer and union establish committees to study possibility of establishing "A" and "B" carpenters.

The suggestion concerned five Prince Rupert companies and the union. The board also gave unanimous recommendation for a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase which would place the basic rate at $2.10 an hour.

Labor Relations Board will be asked tomorrow to set dates for a strike vote among Victoria car penters and for the File Drivers Union, it was reported yesterday.

Applications for the government supervised votes were made earlier this month.

It was understood that a heavy load of work during past weeks has prevented the board from taking action any earlier.

Fourteen certificates of bargaining authority were issued to unions by the Labor Relations Board during the period of May 19 to 23.

FIVE TO CLERKS

Five were issued to local 1518, Retail Grocery and Food Clerks Union (A.F.L.—T.L.C.) for Canada Safeway Ltd. employees handling or selling groceries or grocery products in stores at Trail, Penticton, Kelowna and Chilliwack.

Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (A.F.L.—T.L.C.) was certified for employees in the Port Alberni mill operation of MacMillan & Bloedel (Alberni) Ltd. Excepted employees are office staff, security guards, electricians and their helpers.

About 7,500 employees in the B.C. fishing industry have overwhelmingly rejected an employer "package" deal designed to hold the line on wages, a Vancouver trade unionist said yesterday.

Alex Gordon of the Union of Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (T.L.C.) said late returns showed about 85 per cent of the industry's 3,000 shoreworkers, 500 tendermen, and 4,000 salmon fishermen opposed to the companies' proposal.

The Fisheries Association of B.C. on May 9 offered the tendermen and shoreworkers the 1951 contract and proposed to fishermen that prices on salmon be slashed from a low of two cents on summer chums to a high of five cents on coho.

Since the ballots were sent out to union members, negotiations have continued and the dispute will now go to conciliation board.

The union is asking a 15 per cent pay hike for tendermen and 33⅓ for shoreworkers, plus boosts in the price of fish from 2½ cents to five.

Fish prices involved will not go before a board but will be argued between fishermen and operators.

T.L.C. locals meeting this week include: Carpenters, Monday; Electricians, Hotel and Restaurant Workers, Tuesday; Trades and Labor Council, Expressmen, Wednesday; Automotive Workers, Fishermen and Lathers, Thursday; Chemical Workers at Esquimalt, Friday.

C.C.L. locals meeting include: Chemists, Monday; Laundry Workers, Wednesday; C.B.R.E. Div. 234, Thursday; C.B.R.E. Div. 289, Friday.

Victoria Chinese To Join In Anti-Communist Fight

Chinese Canadians of Victoria are joining Chinese across Canada in a drive against Communism.

Victoria was represented at the recent national convention of Chinese communities in Canada, held in Toronto, where the following resolution was passed:

"This convention hereby affirms its loyalty to Canada and solemnly pledges to uphold and defend the constitution and the democratic principles of Canada and of the free nations of the world.

"... The Chinese communities throughout Canada should co-operate to take immediate effective measures to combat Communism in Canada and Communist domination of the Chinese mainland."

A spokesman for the Victoria Chinese community said he is not yet prepared to announce what form the anti-Communist campaign will take.

Wounded Soldier Evacuated Under Fire by 'Copter

As one U.S. marine readies a litter attached to the left side of a helicopter, other marines carry an unidentified wounded man toward the plane for evacuation, and bend low to avoid sniper detection. The patient would have gone home the following day; this was to have been his last day on the front lines. The patient is recuperating from his wounds but is still in Korea. — (Central Press Canadian.)

New Pyramid May Turn Old Pages

CAIRO, May 31 (NANA).—A new pyramid is expected to be added to Egypt's swelling list of ancient monuments which are proving to be a lucrative attraction for the tourist trade.

An Egyptian archeological team headed by Prof. Zakaria Ghonem, excavating in the sand dunes of what was Memphis, ancient capital of Pharaonic Egypt, south of modern Cairo, have come across a huge limestone wall enclosing an area of 24 acres and have cleared it of sand.

The high enclosure, similar in style to the wall surrounding the famous step pyramid of Sakkara a few hundred yards away, is hiding another great pyramid, complete with tomb, temple, and passageways, said Ghonem. Buried deep under the desert sand, on the edge of the green Nile Valley, the actual site of the pyramid will not be excavated until winter.

Because of the intense heat, which starts early in spring, archeological work throughout Egypt is at a standstill half the year.

Archeologists said that the discovery of the 4,700-year-old pyramid at Sakkara would be as important an event, and, perhaps, as sensational, as the discovery of the tomb of King Tutankhamen in 1922.

Without waiting for the opening of the pryamid's tomb chamber, which will shed all the light on who built the stone edifice and for whom was it built, archeologists are debating the ownership of the sand-hidden pyramid.

Some are nearly certain that the pyramid belongs to King Snekht, a successor to King Zoser, who built the step pyramid at Sakkara. The only thing known about King Snekht is that his tomb had been neglected and obstructed by his jealous successors, one of whom, the Pharaoh Unis, built his own nearby tomb. Archeologists have been searching for Snekht's tomb for 10 years.

Other archeologists say that the new pyramid is the tomb of King Zoser's prime minister, Imhotep, who at the same time was a famous construction engineer, credited with much of the fine temples, tombs and palaces of his time.

The mystery hidden by 5,000 years of sand will be cleared when Ghonem begins digging straight for the tomb chamber of the pyramid in the winter. Experts think that it will be fairly easy to spot the tomb chamber, because the discoveries so far indicate that the plan followed in building the new pyramid is similar to that of Zoser's step pyramid.

Whether the pyramid belongs to King Snekht or to minister-engineer Imhotep, the unearthing of the tomb chamber will throw new light on a period of ancient Egyptian history about which little is known so far.

Archeologists are only hoping that they will find the tomb chamber intact and untouched by time or centuries of official and unofficial pilferers.

Lapps, Reindeer Will Fly to Chile

NEW YORK, May 31 (NANA).—Though it is a long way to Christmas, reindeer are going to fly—all the way from Swedish Lapland to Southern Chile, on the fringes of the Antarctic Ocean.

Dagens Nyheter of Stockholm reports that the Swedish government's department of Lapp affairs will help to finance the airlift from Jokkmokk to Punta Arenas to the tune of $5,000 for the first party of northern nomads, scheduled to leave for the Antipodes under the leadership of Aslak Partapuoli, a Lapp from Ammarnaes.

The Chilean government views with favor this transplantation of the northern reindeer herdsmen and of their animals, and has assigned for colonization a mountainous region resembling Norwegian Lapland in configuration and Swedish Lapland in climate. Southern Chile has wild deer, but no reindeer.

Aslak and his companions will remain eight months in the new Chilean location and will go back to Sweden to report to their fellow tribesmen on the potentialities the new territories offer them in the southern Andes.

The Swedish, Norwegian and Finnish governments have long been concerned for the future of their Lapp wards, who have greatly increased in numbers since the introduction of a free health service under the Scandinavian state medical setup, increased emigration of young Lapp girls to Scandinavian cities as domestic servants has proved to be only a palliative to the situation.

The Lapp men do not seem to be happy in urban environment and insist in returning to their nomadic life even when their wives have come to prefer city life. Thus, the offer of cold pastures on the slopes of the Andes appears to be an ideal solution to the problem.

From the point of view of the Santiago government there is also the interesting possibility that the immigrant Lapps may train the Araucan Indians of South Chile to keep reindeer herds—just as they already have trained Arctic Canada's Eskimos in the same craft and are currently training Greenland's Eskimos.

Artificial Lens of Plastic Restores Sight for Woman

VANCOUVER, May 31 (CP)—An artificial lens, made of plastic and smaller than an aspirin tablet, has restored the sight of a woman here.

Blinded by cataracts in both eyes for 10 years, Mrs. M. Bogert, 57, of Enderby, B.C., underwent the first-known operation of its kind in North America, it was reported today by surgeons at the Vancouver General Hospital.

The artificial lens was placed inside her left eye after it was molded to the same shape as the natural lens.

"I can see my daughter's features for the first time in 10 years," said Mrs. Bogert now staying at the home of the daughter in Vancouver.

"Now I can hardly wait to see my other four children."

Surgeons here followed the techniques evolved by Dr. Harold Ridley of London, England. He has performed 25 such operations in England.

In a routine operation, a cataract was removed from Mrs. Bogert's right eye, but surgeons feared a similar operation on her left might leave her totally blind for life. Prior to the operations she was able to distinguish between light and dark, but that was all.

She consented to the new operation on her left eye and the placing of the plastic lens in replacement of the natural lens. The plastic is the perspex type used in the hatch covers of fighter planes.

"I was surprised at first that I could see when I woke up with the new lens in my eye," said Mrs. Bogert. "I said a little prayer."

Oddities

VANCOUVER, May 31 (CP). — Bridegroom-to-be Frank Thompson has been wearing a ball-and-chain since last Tuesday.

He was shackled by friends at a stag party and the bride-to-be was given the key. Since then he has been wearing a 60-pound weight attached to plenty of chain.

The shackles, he hopes, will be removed shortly before his wedding tonight to Miss Beverley Jean Mattock.

Auld Lang Syne To Be Auctioned

Crisis Mounts On Crisis

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP News Analyst

The next few months promise to be the most critical and dangerous—for the western world since the Second World War.

Crisis now mounts upon crisis. Russia and the Communist organization push determinedly as close to a world conflict as they dare.

War—the big one that even the Communists don't want at present—could be the result. If the world can get through the next few months, perhaps to the end of this year, without the big conflagration starting, it may have salvaged a chance to put it off indefinitely. But now is the time of danger.

The week just ended was a momentous one but it was only the beginning. It is too early to tell whether it was good or bad for the west.

Last week saw the Communists spring into the organized action that students of their tactics expected of them. They moved immediately after these grave events:

1. The signing of a peace contract between west Germany and the Big Three which will render west Germany virtually sovereign and marry her to the western European alliance against Communism.

2. The signing of the European defense community pact and related agreements. These will set up a unified west European army, back it by North Atlantic alliance power and bring west Germany under the protection of that power.

3. The declaration by Britain, United States and France that an attack on any free European country will be a threat to Big Three security.

There are booby traps at every turn along the road the western countries must travel before they can realize such dreams as the political and military unification of Europe.

What happens in Korea, what happens in Indo-China, in North Africa—even what happens in the U.S. political campaign — will have a strong influence on the fate of the pacts of Bonn and Paris.

Bitter battles lie ahead against the frantic efforts of Russia and her legions to upset the west. The organized rioting of the French Communists led by their underground was just a taste.

Medicine Plan Scaled Down For Britons

LONDON, June 1 (AP).—Britain's socialized medicine program was scaled down today.

For the first time in four years, Britons will have to pay directly for some health services, such as prescriptions, dental treatment, false teeth and wigs.

Winston Churchill's government cut back the tax-supported program to save money. Ministers expect to save £20,000,000 a year through the charges.

The core of the program is not destroyed, however, and Health Minister Ian MacLeod said "the government does not declare, and it is not part of Conservative policy or philosophy that charges must remain a permanent part of the National Health Service."

Socialized medicine was the most popular measure of the former Labor government.

About 95 per cent of the people use the health service. About 95 per cent of the country's 11,000 dentists, 90 per cent of the 23,500 general medical practitioners and practically all the 16,000 druggist and 7,000 opticians participate.

The new charges include: up to £1 10s for false teeth, up to £1 for a course of dental treatment, one shilling for each prescription, £3 for surgical boots, £1 for surgical supports, and carrying costs for a private room in a hospital for many cases.

Pageantry Restored in U.K.

LONDON, May 31 (Reuters)—State pageantry and the gay social whirl come into their own again in Britain at midnight tonight when the court casts off the mourning it had worn since King George VI died February 6.

Starting signal for the gay summer season came last Tuesday from St. James's Palace, when permits were issued to the elite for entrance to the Royal enclosure at Ascot race course.

Mourning for the King has been shorter—3½ months—and simpler than for any previous British monarch.

Royal women are expected to follow the Queen's example for a few months by wearing only grey, mauve and lilac or the black and white which happens to be in the fashion.

The 26-year-old Queen will not immediately take an active part in social life. With the Duke of Edinburgh, and their two children, she is enjoying a quiet vacation at Balmoral Castle.

On her return here Tuesday [illegible] Buckingham Palace officials call "a formidable number" of engagements.

Color and pageantry will return to her capital next Thursday, when she celebrates her official birthday. British monarchs have an official anniversary as well as their actual birthday—by riding side-saddle in the trooping-the-color ceremony of her brigade of guards.

(Canada celebrates the Queen's birthday June 9).

Saturday there will be more traditional pomp and circumstance when heralds proclaim the coronation, [illegible] June 2, 1953.

GOLDEN INDUSTRY

CAPETOWN (CP)—Tea services, cigarette boxes, ash trays and such articles made from South African gold are selling at the rate of £72,000,000 a year. A trade journal said that production of gold ware this year would be South Africa's principal export industry.

Dry, delicate, and aromatic herbs

The selection and preservation of drugs are among the chief responsibilities of the pharmacist. For proper storage of pharmaceuticals in the sixteenth century, it was specified that moist drugs must be kept in silver, glass, or horn jugs and that eye unguents must be preserved in china, whereas marrow, lard, and crude matter of like character could be kept in zinc boxes. Twentieth-century medicines, many of which are extremely delicate in composition, require scientific processing and painstaking care for proper preservation and storage. Development of suitable methods for packaging and preserving drugs is one of pharmacy's many contributions to modern science, through which world-wide distribution of important pharmaceutical and biological products has been made possible.

Every Man in His Castle

FORTUNATELY for this country, there are not many Canadians who believe that human society is divisible, or that caste or class can ever become an accepted part of this land. The disgruntled, those who have failed to adjust themselves to life, may so assert, but it simply is not true. In Canada from the time of the Fathers of Confederation forward there has been no single quality more genuinely and thoroughly believed in than that every individual is a king in his own castle and cock in his own walk. It is a malign, mistaken force which would seek deliberately to undermine this concept of human worth and dignity. It is not Canadian and it never will be.

At the base of the structure of all orderly society is law. What does the law hold in Canada? It is that all individuals, be they rich or poor, of one pigmented color or another, of whatsoever creed or character are equal before a jury of their peers. Back of that law is the express wish and will of every sober, thinking Canadian today as in 1867. One has to go to society itself for the deepest and most strongly marked evidence upholding human worth. It is that every man and every woman who works in this a pioneer land, is entitled to the respect and admiration of society; and that their station—far from being either a "class" or a place assigned by some arbitrary decree or custom—is and can always be precisely that which they wish to make it themselves. There are drones and workers in every hive and humanity is no exception, but we do not know of many Canadians who do not prefer to apply whatever skills and talents providence gave them, and not alone for themselves but quite as often perhaps for the benefit and betterment of others.

Anyone in this country who seeks to divide a society which from the time of our forefathers onward has been class-less is working against the spirit and the nature of Canada. Be they ever so diverse in individual ways, Canadians alike in one thing: a sturdy, unshaken, and to our mind unshakeable conviction that freedom means the sovereignty of the individual, within the law. If in death all are equal, in life the principle task of the individual seems to be to master not his neighbors, but himself. And long may that so be in this, our own good land.

Facetious But Misleading

MR. Philip Freedman has conducted his independent candidature along such unorthodox and amusing lines he probably expects many of his statements to be accepted as they are spoken, with the tongue in cheek. The facetious approach, however is apt to mislead, especially in relation to his remarks about ballot stuffing.

No one is likely to take him seriously, yet it is a serious charge he makes. In effect he assails the integrity of returning officers when he tells electors to mark their ballots in full in case someone changes a 1 into a 4 and puts a 1 into a space left blank.

Arithmetical dishonesty among returning officers is conspicuous by its absence in British Columbia, and no one else is or will be permitted to count the ballots of the June 12 election. In point of fact these officials will have much more to bother about in handling the new transferable ballot form than adding to their labors, but that and the presence of scrutineers aside, the stuffing of ballots is a practice wholly foreign to their trust.

No voter need worry on this point, no matter how humorously it is presented at campaign meetings. To make full use of the new voting system a voter should, of course, mark his ballot all down the line, from 1 to 4 or 6 as the case may be, but he is not compelled to do so. He may cast as many of these votes as he likes or he may leave out as many as he likes.

And the latter he may do in the full knowledge that his ballot will not be tampered with. Even a light-hearted campaign speech should not be allowed to obscure this basic and reassuring factor of our electoral system.

Our Young Musicians

EUGENE Ormandy, director of the Philadelphia Orchestra, in an article printed on this page recently noted with pleasure the active interest young people of this continent are taking in instrumental and orchestral music. This revival of "live" music is rather surprising, and happily so, because many people have inclined to the gloomy view that the "canned" fare purveyed by the radio the mercenary jukebox and the phonograph would in time deprive young people of all appreciation of music at first hand and of any desire for active participation in its production. If Dr. Ormandy is right when he estimates that 80% of North America's high schools have bands and orchestras and that more than 3,000,000 of their students are taking an active part in music, then it looks as if the young people have survived the onslaught of mechanization remarkably well.

Evidence that this is the case in Victoria has been provided these last two winters by the success of the student concerts presented by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, with the co-operation of the Greater Victoria School Board. In the series just ended the youthful audiences displayed an enthusiasm for serious orchestral works which was clear proof that the cacophony bombarding them during most of their waking hours has failed to dull appreciation of what is best in music.

In Victoria this re-awakened interest in music is not all passive by any means, as witness the weekly Sunday afternoon concerts now being given in Beacon Hill Park by the Central Junior High School Band, the Victoria School Bands, and the Victoria High School Orchestra. It is gratifying to see these combinations of young musicians trained to the point where they can appear in public and acquit themselves admirably. Their work and that of their teachers deserves strong support, not only for the pleasure they give to others but because they are creating material with which orchestral music will be kept alive.

THETIS LAKE

Sir,—This latest decision to put an automobile race track in the midst of one of the city's loveliest parks seems shortsighted in the extreme.

Those parents whose children spend most of their summer days at the lake, know and appreciate the safe bathing facilities. Now, in order to have safe bathing, they will have to risk life and limb on an inadequate and overcrowded road.

The road at present is narrow and winding and carries a great deal of traffic. Can you imagine what it will be like with the additional load of race track patrons?

In addition to the traffic hazard it seems strange that our city fathers are willing to sacrifice the scenery and serenity of this beautiful park when surely there are other sites, equally suitable, away from children's playgrounds and homes where a race track could just as easily be built.

One last point, in addition to all the extra traffic on Thetis Lake road I understand that the new highway will also cross it at some point.

CIVIC GRANT

Sir,—I have just received a letter from a friend on Vancouver Island in which he informs me that Victoria has decided to cut off the subsidy or support it has been giving to the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria. If this be true, it is sad news indeed.

After the most generous gift of Miss Sara Spencer of the old family home on Moss Street, and just when the Arts Centre was finding its feet and becoming firmly established, this action on the part of the City of Victoria is a cruel blow indeed.

The City of Victoria's action in withdrawing the grant is most short-sighted policy imaginable and infinitely damaging to the prestige of Victoria.

Cannot the city hall realize that Victoria is the capital city of the most rapidly expanding province of all Canada, and within a decade or so destined to become perhaps the richest province in the Dominion?

And yet they cannot afford a few thousand dollars a year to keep the Arts Centre going during it's "teething years."

Apart from the question of prestige, has it not occurred to the city that this action is the greatest possible discourtesy to Miss Sara Spencer and the whole Spencer family, to whom Victoria owes so much?

Finally, I may perhaps be allowed to quote some wise words spoken some 2,000 years ago, but which are perhaps more important today than ever: "Man shall not live by bread alone."

MANPOWER SHORTAGE

Sir,—Since my return from England I have heard a great deal of complaints regarding the deliveries of materials from the Old Country. I have tried to explain that this, in the main, is due to the labor shortage.

I think the following extract from the May issue of the house journal of the British Telecommunication Research Ltd. may be of interest:

"As you must have read in the daily papers and elsewhere of the urgency of production to our economic situation, this may strike you, as it did me, as very confusing. There were lines of machines idle and covered with dust and with all the necessary belting to drive them, loosely hanging from the pulleys. Automatic machinery, capstans, light and heavy presses and scores of special duty machines. Passing on into the foundry and subsidiary department we found the same depressing idleness. On enquiring into the sad sight of machines and equipment lying idle, I ventured to suggest that perhaps this was due to the shortage of material. To my surprise this was not so, the reason being that labor was not available. This apparently is the situation throughout the Midlands, and causes local papers great headaches, finding print space for local and general news, rather than situations vacant.

"This labor shortage is due to the general move of the population towards the south and explains the attitude of Midland manufacturers, with regard to their willingness to give every assistance, but deliveries they cannot give, and also they are not too willing to accept small orders for specialized work such as ours."

Escape from Perils of Europe

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

PERHAPS I don't have a secret life exactly like that of Walter Mitty, although his penchant for imaginative flights is not a bit unique, but, alas, I have certain other vanities.

I uncovered one the other night, and I hope you'll believe me when I say I couldn't help smiling at myself. I was rummaging in a box of odds and ends and I came across . . .

An old pair of football (soccer) boots!

They should have been thrown out long ago, there's no doubt about that. They're battered and worn, a mere shadow of their original glossy self, but—well, I just didn't have the heart. They're a legacy of my faded youth, and you know how old codgers cling mentally to their heyday.

(Give them half a chance and they'll bore you stiff about the hours of their glory.)

* * *

Why—and this will expose me forever, but maybe confession really is good for the soul—I've even trifled with the idea of having one boot frozen in bronze, like those bootees fond mamas preserve for posterity. I haven't yet succumbed to this temptation, but . . .

Frankly, I'm afraid.

It will be the left boot, if sentiment gets the better of my good sense. It's the least shabby of the two, for one thing, and for another I was wont to play left back so that would make the dedication appropriate. Not that my right foot was a passenger. Oh, no. Even in confession my vanity won't permit that baleful deduction to be drawn. As a matter of fact at school I first played on the right, but soon learned that in soccer two feet are a vast improvement over one.

If you doubt that, watch Tottenham Hotspurs closely tomorrow night.

Of course you understand that now I'm talking about real soccer players. I don't know whether any one of them will ever steep a football boot in bronze, but if he does he'll have much more warrant for such foolishness than yours truly. That goes without saying, even if Eve said it.

* * *

Tottenham Hotspur! A glamorous name.

When I was a boy it was one of my favorites, for it has 16 letters in it and that was a stumper in a game we played. In those days some firm or other manufactured shield-shaped cards, each showing a soccer match in action and with the name of a big-league club printed across it. The trick was to hide the name and let another boy guess the number of letters if contained. If he guessed rightly he won the card. If he were wrong he gave you a card. And of course the bigger the pack you assembled the better the tribute to your I.Q.

Some cards were what we called puzzlers, i.e., two cards with the same scene but a different team name. I think Tottenham was one of the puzzlers. Anyway, it was one of the star teams of that period just as it is today.

* * *

Other famous names were Blackburn Rovers, Barnsley, Newcastle United, Swindon Town, Everton, Preston North End, and naturally—Glasgow Rangers, Queens Park, Heart of Midlothian, et al. Some of these clubs are in the dumps nowadays but they shone brightly when guessing the length of their names was a fascinating pastime for small boys.

What a pity we have to grow up!

In time I came to know more about what these names stood for, fortunately, or else I wouldn't be able to finish this column. Tottenham has had its ups and downs, too, but it's one of those clubs that somehow capture the imagination. The Spurs, as they are colloqually known, have a magic ring about them.

You'll see why at Royal Athletic Park tomorrow evening, if it happens that you're present. There is small chance our boys can do to the Spurs what they did to Fulham a year ago, begging their pardon but they'll know fine what I mean. What they will do I'm sure, though, is make Tottenham stretch their legs and show us soccer artistry at its best.

Truth to tell, my own feet are beginning to itch in advance. Maybe after the game I'll be able to decide whether to make a statuette of that left boot, or . . .

Kiss it goodbye forever.

The German Peace Treaty

By SETH HALTON

ONE of the most interesting and bold experiments in modern history was begun last week with the signing of the peace treaty and military alliance between West Germany and England, France and the United States.

The signing was not like that at Versailles, where the defeated Germans were summoned after the First World War to accept unilaterally-decided terms. This was a negotiated treaty, with the Big Three foreign ministers paying a visit to the West German capital at Bonn to sign the official documents. Only seven years after the bitterest war ever fought the victors wooed the vanquished.

For the Allies the signing marked the point of no return in their experiment to convert West Germany into a sincere member of our community of nations. For though it is true that the pact has yet to be ratified in the parliaments of the victors and that there will be particular difficulties in the French Assembly, there can hardly now be a withdrawal from the policy of wooing.

The treaty returns to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Bonn government most of the rights and privileges of a sovereign state, and in return Germany will contribute 12 army units of divisional strength to the integrated Western European army. The Allies retain the right, technically, to resume the occupation if the need arises, but it is highly improbable they could, or would.

* * *

This point is what alarms France. Her memories of three German invasions in little more than half a century are more vivid than those of England and America.

Yet in the seven years since the last invasion was repulsed, the face of Europe has been lifted. The German industrial potential and the German genius for making war, the things which France fears most, are the very qualities that the West would need in the event of an invasion by Russia. That is why rearmament is taking place. The policy is only an extension of Britain's traditional concept of a balance of power in Europe.

If the policy is carried out to fulfillment Western Germany will be a mighty bulwark for the defense not only of itself but of the rest of Europe. Whether it can be fulfilled is a different matter.

* * *

The Germans traditionally have vacillated between the pull of the east and the pull of the west, between the pull of the peaceful Rhineland and that of militaristic Prussia. And in West Germany, in 1952, new forces are helping the ancient contesting magnets.

On the one hand there is East Germany, ruled by Russia but still part of the Fatherland. The separation, now being fomented by the Russians, saddens both East and West and there is a natural desire for unification. Nationhood, even under Soviet domination, attracts strong elements in the West, particularly those which feel that Russia will rule all Europe.

On the other hand nationhood under the aegis of N.A.T.O. offers more independence and freedom of action, and what is more important, Adenauer has practically won it now. It will be up to the Allies to keep the new state under control and at the same time continue to woo it with presents of more power, more army divisions, more nationhood.

It's a difficult policy, bold, and fraught with the danger that if it is unsuccessful England, France and the United States will only have rearmed a future enemy. But it is a policy for which the Allies had no alternative. If it is successful the chances of holding Europe will be immeasurably enhanced.

Skills and Their Costs

From Saturday Night

ONE of the economic problems of our age, and one which is going to become progressively more serious as time goes on, is the disappearance of the old differential between the remuneration of a job which can be learned in three weeks and that of a job which can only be learned in three, five or seven years. The difference between these two kinds of skill is that the former costs practically nothing to acquire, either in time or in money, and therefore represents nothing of an investment, whereas the latter means a prolonged period of unremunerative work and possibly a substantial cash outlay in fees and living costs.

This differential used to be sufficient to enable the skilled person to purchase a substantial amount of the services of unskilled people, and thereby to economize his own time and devote more of it to his skilled occupation. At present, between the whittling down of the differential and the heavy rate of income taxation on what is left of it, even a quite highly skilled man—a doctor, for example, who has not only devoted 10 years more to his training than the street car motorman but has also put in several unremunerative years establishing himself on the first rungs of his practice—can afford himself little in the way of the services of unskilled persons. He will have to make $17,000 a year if he is to have a thousand a month left for his own use after income tax. If the time of a motorman is worth $3,000 a year the time of a medical student must be worth an average of $2,000 a year from 16 to 26, and that item, alone, without any allowance for compound interest, makes a full-fledged medical man represent an investment of $20,000. This investment, plus interest, must be capable of being paid off out of his earnings during his active lifetime, which is not very long because of his late start; otherwise, as an investment, it was not worth making, and he might better have become a motorman at the earliest age permitted. And after setting aside the annual levy for paying off the investment there is not much left for purchasing the services of people who cost $3,000 a year or a dollar and a half an hour.

The point is that the incentive to acquire a high (and costly) degree of skill is diminished every time you diminish the difference of earning power which is the reward of that skill, and our society today is diminishing it very fast. We may find ourselves with plenty of people skilled in making passengers put tickets in fare-boxes, and few people skilled in the more important arts of designing transportation systems and creating jobs for them to take workers to. We already have too few nurses, too few engineers, too few people who can write decent English, and (though the doctors do not admit it) too few doctors.

Victoria in Beard and Crinoline

From Files of The Daily British Colonist of June, 1865

By G. E. MORTIMORE

"GET LOST" is an injunction often hurled at members of the Legislature, in politer terms than those two words, but with the same unmistakable meaning.

Here was a member of the colonial legislature who really did get lost—and in his own constituency, too. Politicians are said to "know their way around," but this one didn't.

It was no joke at the time. James Carswell, member of the Island legislature for Sooke, went on an excursion to Sooke Harbor with his wife on the steamer Enterprise, landed to visit some constituents, leaving his wife aboard—and got lost. The ship sailed without him.

Search parties went out. "It is of course as possible that Mr. Carswell met with foul play as that he lost himself in the woods," the Colonist observed, gloomily.

Had some enraged voter set upon Mr. Carswell and beaten him into the 'ground'. As it transpired, no. The Carswell story was later pieced together in this fashion:

"After leaving the steamer at Robertson's Landing Mr. Carswell proceeded along the so-called Sooke city trail, but on arriving at the cross roads, instead of taking the left-hand trail leading to Muir's farm, he proceeded straight on.

"Discovering his error, he endeavored to save time by making a short cut through the woods, but had not gone far before he found himself bewildered by the thick underbrush." He shouted. Nobody answered. At dark he lit a fire, cut down fir boughs with a porker knife and made a bed.

Next day and the day after, he wandered on. He ran out of matches, fell in a water hole, heard shouts and gunshots but couldn't reach the searchers, chewed tobacco and drank water when he got acutely hungry, lost his knife, stripped boughs with his bleeding hands to make what he thought was his last bed, then lay down and slept from Sunday to Tuesday.

He awoke refreshed, "wound up his watch and set it by the sun, and once more made a start for civilization. After travelling for four hours, to his great joy he struck the trail. He pushed along, but accidentally took the wrong route, going on to Leech instead of Sooke."

Three searchers found him sitting on a log to rest, weak but alive. Mr. Carswell was an honorable and well-liked man, but even his friends acknowledged that he was short-sighted and had little sense of direction. He had been lost in his own constituency for six days.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

PRICING furniture the other day, I was struck by the fact that the most expensive items were the most old-fashioned. The most costly chesterfield suites, for example, were those that stuck to the old familiar design that has been consistently popular for at least 50 years—the wide, simple, comfortably stuffed pieces characteristic of the 20th century homes, mansion and humble semi-detached alike.

Not only chesterfield suites, but bedroom and dining room suites seem to follow this principle—the older-fashioned, the more expensive, although by a little hunting you can get modern furniture at the high prices that suggest good workmanship, sound materials and lasting value. But most of what is called modern styling in furniture is in the lowest priced goods. And you can see why, at a glance. Modern design lends itself to ease of manufacture, for one thing. And the manufacturers appear to put something other than their best materials into this class of merchandise perhaps because they doubt the fashion will last long enough to deserve more durable treatment.

One of the clerks explained to me that the younger people, who have not too much money, seem to prefer the modern styling, whereas the older people, who would be more likely to have money, prefer the older-fashioned designs. Nothing could better demonstrate the economic contrast between what is new and what is old in furniture. The difference of $150 between an old-fashioned chesterfield suite that costs $500 and a modernistic suite costing $350 is in reality not a saving at all. Because, within five and certainly within 10 years, the $350 suite will be entirely outdated by still newer modern designs, if it has not already fallen apart from inferior workmanship and materials. Whereas the $500 suite, belonging as it does to a tradition already more than half a century old, will not be outdated in 15 years. And in 15 years a good chesterfield suite is just nicely broken in.

EUROPEAN DIARY

By H. T. Matson

LONDON, May 16 (By Mail).—I've complained so much about not being half-way yet through Germany—due to an almost unattainable automobile—that nobody is even expected to believe this "one" . . . but here it is . . .

Re this car . . . and what further happened to it . . . at the end of less than 500 miles, a gas attendant removing the radiator cap got a free steam bath and a big scare included. That car—and it was brand new—was dry as an Arab chieftain on a Saturday night, or any other. The water pump was badly damaged and is now being re-lined, or re-bushed, or re-something at a local "smithy's" and in a few days might (by God's best graces only) be ready to run maybe 50 miles.

* * *

At which one merely shrugs . . . and now perhaps it's possible to tell a story. And at that, perhaps not. For you'll find if you're sitting on one of those swarded English lawns alongside a low hedge just barely shielding one of those gentle, indescribable old English gardens, with slate-roof English houses curiously watching you—possibly in equal curiosity you might get quite mesmerized and too bemused to even attempt a job of telling tales.

And that precisely is my position at the moment, consequently my mood is mutinous.

But even in queer temper one might just manage to tell you about what is perhaps the smallest and shortest ferry in the world; or at any rate the shortest within five miles of the biggest city in the world . . . I refer most deferentially to a microscopic thing . . . to a rickety, emaciated little wherry that boasts the huge name of "The Twickenham Ferry." And this in twelve-inch lettering, subheaded with words explaining that it is owned and operated by the Government Railway System.

* * *

Beside it stands a roofed shelter big enough to house passengers waiting for any of the international seaports. About 10 quite wide stone steps—the last is lapped lazily by brownish, friendly-looking water—and down them prance cats, dogs, old ladies, bicycles and wheelbarrows. Level to gunwale of a thing appearing as tippable as any waiter, and why it refuses to go straight to the bottom as the first body enters is never questioned by man or beast, or so the historians tell you.

It is manned and skippered by a rather cadaverous-looking oarsman sporting a thickish turtle-necked sweater who rows languorously across in about two minutes. The fare is exactly twopence—and you naturally tip him another two for not tipping. It waits at the last bank touched to discover whether it will there pick up a worthwhile load, then goes slippetty-sloppity across to the opposite side, where a dozen or so have been piling up for the last 20 minutes, with finger nails having a pretty nasty time of it.

* * *

So there's your whimsy little ferry. What happens to it in dirty weather I can't tell you. My brief dealings with it occurred on a day as calm as Ovaltine on a flat platter. Even so, I could not refrain from murmuring "Come back, come back, he cried in grief; across the stormy water; and I'll forgive your Highland Chief . . . my daughter, OH MY DAUGHTER!"

Snowsell Repeats Bid For Debate With Ash

Saanich C.C.F. candidate Frank Snowsell last night repeated his challenge to meet Liberal candidate Arthur Ash in debate over socialist policies Mr. Ash has attacked in his Saanich election campaign.

Friday night Arthur Ash told a Boleskine Road audience that Mr. Snowsell's challenge was "nothing but a publicity stunt" and added that "nothing is to be gained by a debate."

"I don't consider that Mr. Ash's statements are an answer to my challenge," Mr. Snowsell said last night. He said that the C.C.F. was always willing to meet opposing candidates in debate over differing policies.

"I gave him a blanket invitation, but he said he was too busy to meet me. I cordially invite Mr. Ash to join me at any of my meetings or I'll cancel one of mine to join the debate," Mr. Snowsell said.

Cars Damaged In Collision

More than $150 damage was caused to two vehicles in a collision yesterday afternoon on Esquimalt Road.

Esquimalt police said a car driven by Paul Kannaspuro, Brentwood Bay Auto Court, went out of control and hit a parked vehicle owned by W. W. Mitchell, Saanichton.

They said the mishap occurred in the 1100 block Esquimalt Road.

Ulrich Tops Seniors At Glenlyon Sports

More than 300 relatives and friends, and old boys gathered at Glenlyon Preparatory School yesterday for the annual school sports and fields day.

Senior boys' championship was won by David Ulrich, 1865 Christie Way, with 13 points. Runner-up, David Dorman, 271 Denison Street, had nine points.

The intermediate championship was taken by Burke Cuppage, 2695 Lansdowne Road. He had 8½ points to the seven of second-place Blair McLean, 63 Linden Avenue.

In the junior championship Teddy Upward, 3930 Scolton Avenue, scored eight points, Murray Peglar, seven. The Parizeau Cup for 100-yard senior dash was taken by David Dorman, and the Pitts Cup for under 12 went to David Usher.

The Homer Dixon Cup for the open high jump was won by David Ulrich and cups for the cross-country run during the term were presented to Robert Halsor, senior, and Ian Ogle, junior.

Army Cooks in Demand

Cooks for army camps will be needed soon and applications are being taken now for the beans and bacon detail.

The report from C. A. Mudge, manager of the Victoria office of the National Employment Service, said the army work would last from five to six weeks.

Other job vacancies at the week end included head loader and chokerman for a logging company, lumber marker, taxi drivers, sales clerks, car salesman.

There is a demand also for young men as junior clerks, office boy with Grade X education, furniture warehousemen, and an advertising and display assistant, 19 to 20, with some training in showcard writing and display work.

Magistrate Remands Motorist On Dangerous Driving Charge

Victor Robinson, Coldicutt Road, was remanded by Magistrate A. I. Thomas yesterday in Saanich police court until June 5 after pleading not guilty to a charge of dangerous driving.

Robinson's car crashed into a Tillicum Road ditch and caught fire on Friday night. Robinson escaped without injury.

Police said his car went out of control near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre.

Saanich fire department extinguished the blaze. The car, however, was a total wreck.

Decision has been reserved by Magistrate Thomas on a charge against a taxi company.

The company, charged with carrying a greater number of passengers than the maximum allowed, contended that as four of eight passengers were under 12 years of age, they did not constitute fully-grown passengers. The car was licensed for seven.

The case was remanded to June 3.

A remand until June 5 was given a 24-year-old Esquimalt man on a public morals charge.

The man pleaded not guilty. The charge arose fom an incident on May 27, police said.

Visiting Athletes Star in B.C. Inter-High Track Meet

Top trio in girls' 60-yard race are, left to right: Natalie Haluschak, Vernon, who finished third; winner Valerie Haig-Brown, Campbell River, and Chris Boyd, second, from Victoria High. Miss Haig-Brown showed surprise strength in the girls' events, winning 11 of her team's 12 points. Complete results are in story at right.—(Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Happy record holders are Peter Garrett (left) of Duke's and Ron Lucas of Vancouver Technical. Garrett set a new mark in pole vault with leap of 11 feet 2 inches, while Lucas posted a new record in winning 880 in 2.02.1. Lucas was also one of the favorites in the mile, but was forced to drop out after the second lap.

Victoria High, paced by the stellar performances of Ted Whan and Chris Boyd, captured the provincial inter-high school track and field championship for the second successive year at Victoria High yesterday and did it in a convincing manner.

The Fernwood thinclads wound up the two-day affair with an aggregate total of 80½ points, a 51-point edge over the strong Duke of Connaught contingent.

To top off one of the most hotly contested meets in years, the host school retained the Birks Trophy, emblematic of zone supremacy, and two of its top athletes, Whan and Miss Boyd, copped the boys' and girls' individual honors.

Oak Bay ended in the third slot with 24 points, with the other 19 schools trailing well back.

EIGHT RECORDS

In sweeping to the overwhelming victory, Victoria High won five of the 20 events and claimed two of the eight records established.

Whan, in winning the senior boys' individual honors for the second straight year, copped three events and placed third in the fourth event he was entered in. Whan also cracked records in the hop, step and jump and broad jump.

His leap of 21 feet 2½ inches in the broad jump broke the former standard of 21 feet set by Dave Reddin of Magee in 1947, and his jump of 43 feet ¾ inch shattered the former mark of 41 feet 9 inches, established by Whan last year, for the hop, step and jump.

Whan's closest competition came from Harry Nelson, Duke of Connaught's speedy sprinter, who placed first in the hurdles and 220 yards and second in the 100 yards for a total of 13 points.

UP-ISLAND STAR

Miss Boyd won the senior girls' crown, left vacant by Gerry Bemister, with 16 points. Her victories in the broad jump and 100 yards were enough to win over Val Haig-Brown, who garnered all but 1½ of Campbell River's total of 12½ points.

Peter Garrett of Duke of Connaught cleared the bar in the pole vault at 11 feet 2 inches to break the former mark, held by D. Davis and G. Kenyon, by a half inch.

Dave Stafford of Langley, Fraser Valley champion, traveled the 100 yards in 10.2, one-tenth of a second faster than the mark set last year by Tony Hester of Creston.

Nelson, running with a shoulder taped because of a pulled muscle, won the 120-yard hurdles, a new event this year, in 15.5.

FAST HALF MILE

Ron Lucas, from Vancouver Technical, copped the 880 yards over highly-favored Don Burgess of the host school in 2.02.1, to beat the former standard of 2.03.3, set by King Edward's Doug Clement last year.

Shirley Cliffe was the only female competitor to establish a new standard. Her heave of 104 feet 3½ inches in the girls' discus broke the record of 90 feet 7½ inches set by Cathy MacDonald of Victoria High in 1951.

The other record to fall was in the three miles in which Ken Murray, Mount View's promising distance runner, completed the 12 laps around the Cyro cinder track in the excellent time of 16.11.6. Victoria High's Pete Kirchner, who finished third behind teammate Dick Wood, held the former mark of 16.31.6.

SPECTACULAR RACE

One of the highlights of the meet was the one mile, in which the lead changed hands several times before a winner was declared. It developed into a two-way fight between Burgess and Burnett Wood of Woodfibre, Wood, holding a slight lead on the far turn of the last lap, successfully staved off Burgess' bid at the corner and pulled away in the final stretch.

Bartle Turns Against Former Mates; Solons Win Third in Row Over Tyees

HOW THEY STAND

Wenatchee	17	23	.425	10
Yakima	16	23	.390	11½
Tri-City	16	26	.380	12½

Dick Bartle, who has tried without success for the past two seasons to make the Victoria team, must have been satisfied with his performance at Salem last night.

The likeable first-baseman, sold to the Senators when the Tyees got Chuck Abernathy in a trade with Vancouver, doubled in the 10th inning to give the Solons a 6-5 victory and the Tyees their third straight one-run setback.

It was Bartle's second misdemeanour of the night. His seventh-inning line drive literally knocked starter Ben Lorino out of the box. It hit the Victoria southpaw and although shortstop Jim Clark turned it into a putout, Lorino never seemed to recover and was replaced in the same inning after two solid hits sent in Salem's fourth run. Jim Propst came on in relief and helped the Salem cause no end by blanking in the tying run in the ninth and being in continual trouble until he finally absorbed his fifth loss.

The tough-luck loss sliced the Tyees' first-place lead over Spokane Indians, who downed Yakima Bears, 3-1, to three and a half games.

Apparently not themselves after their sweep of the Spokane series earlier in the week, Tyees saw the breaks go against them for the third straight game. They again played errorless baseball but the improved Salem club was able to stop the Victoria running attack often enough to win.

The Tyees, however, went down scrapping as usual. They scored all their runs after two were out, but they flubbed a couple of scoring chances when a big inning was in prospect. They took 3-0 and 5-3 leads but the Solons were hitting hard and kept coming back.

But it was the loss of Lorino which really hurt. The big southpaw settled down after a shaky fourth inning in which the Solons scored their three runs, and breezed through until Bartle's smash ended his streak of seven successive complete starting assignments.

PROPST IN TROUBLE

Propst was far from impressive. He left two runners aboard in the seventh and three on in the eighth, when an attempt to steal third made the important second out in an inning that should have ended it. He walked pinch-hitter Ray McNulty to open the ninth. A sacrifice and manager Hugh Luby's single put McNulty on third in position to score when umpire Red Eller called a balk.

A walk to Art Thrasher with one out in the 10th was followed by Bartle's game-winning hit.

The Tyees blew a chance in their half of the 10th when they got two runners on with one out as Milt Martin and Propst popped up and they were taken out of possible scoring innings in the first and second when Bob Moniz and Jim Clark banged into double plays. Granny Gladstone, knocked cold by a pitch which hit him on the head in the fourth, batted in the last two Victoria runs with a single and double after singling in the second.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Having had a preference for team sports the writer has always more or less shunned track and field meets. The loss was solely mine, as I discovered yesterday afternoon at the B.C. High School Track and Field Championships at Victoria High School. From the first event to the last it provided the best in keen competition and spectator entertainment and not the least pleasing feature was the efficient manner it was handled. Nothing but credit is due to Laurie Wallace and his associates for a big-time job on what was a big-time show.

Seven broken records and universally-good performances again indicated that Canadian youngsters are continuing to move up in track and field although not yet in the class of their United States neighbors. But it will only be a matter of time, more competition and better facilities before Canada will no longer have to be ranked as a third-rate nation in track and field. In fact, several of the performers in action yesterday could well be winning fame at the next British Empire or Olympic Games.

Several caught the eye. There was Mt. View's Ken Murray, a long-legged distance runner with a natural stride which makes him a definite prospect. He eased to a win in the gruelling three-mile event in record time, completing the last mile in 5.31 after setting a stiff pace in the first mile.

There was Ron Lucas, the one-man team from Vancouver Tech who made the trip on his own and sped to an impressive victory in a record-shattering half-mile. A torn toe forced him out of the mile, but he showed enough to be rated as a future prospect. In the same category is Harry Nelson, from New Westminster's Duke of Connaught High School, a driving sprinter with good form.

Then there was Ted Whan, a determined, intelligent athlete with the ability to be at his best in the clutch, who sparked the host school to the team title by retaining the individual championship and setting new standards in the broad jump and the hop, step and jump.

There were many others but space is at a premium and some mention must be made of Bill Dale, probably the happiest man in all of Canada. The former Victoria British Empire Games runner made the trip all the way from Woodfibre with Burnett Wood, a lithe little miler he has been tutoring on a rock-strewn 220-yard piece of ground that passes for a track in his home town. Wood hung on grimly to win his race and to say Dale was happy would be a masterpiece of understatement. His unrestrained joy wound up a pleasing meet on a pleasing note.

NANAIMO, May 31.—Slim Pat Patterson is the toast of Nanaimo today. His goal with one minute 36 seconds remaining in tonight's Inter-City Lacrosse League game gave Nanaimo Native Sons their first victory of the season and the first in two seasons over the Victoria Shamrocks.

The 18-16 decision was the finest piece of news Nanaimo fans have had since their team joined the league.

Patterson broke the back of a brilliant Shamrock comeback that had seen the Rocks overcome a 15-7 deficit.

Opening the second half, the Shamrocks, bewildered by the Nanaimo onslaught, trailed 16-7. Sons jumped it to 15 before Archie Browning finally got the Irish rolling.

BROWNING TIES IT

They cut it to 16-12 going into the final quarter and then scored four in the row with Browning the pay-off man again with the tying goal. It came at 7.45.

But that was all the Shamrocks had.

Patterson's goal won the game and Spud Morelli clinched it with only seconds left.

Shamrocks still hold a half-interest in first place with New Westminster but they have played one more game than the Salmonacs. New Westminster gets its opportunity to break the deadlock Monday when it meets North Shore Indians.

Nanaimo's victory was its first in six attempts this season.

Gordie Nickle topped the Sons' attack with four goals, while Earl Bennie and Red Nelson each sniped three. Browning and Duff McCaghey bagged three apiece for the Rocks with Browning passing for two more.

It was the Sons' ability to outlast the furious flurry of goals by the Rocks in the last half that spelled victory for Nanaimo. Victoria counted nine in a row to draw even but at that point Sons pulled the stopper and with two last-minute efforts salted away a well-earned win.

The clean game drew approximately 1,200 fans, 250 of them members of the Shamrock Booster Club, most of whom made the trip by special train.

Next game, today: Atces vs. Incogs, Windsor Park, 7.30 p.m.

Cowichan moved into a third-place tie with Incogs in the Victoria and District Cricket Association by defeating Oak Bay, 173-148, at Duncan yesterday afternoon.

In the other league game yesterday, Five C's and Albions played to a draw.

Five C's, batting first, knocked out 173 runs for five wickets and then declared. Albions then hit out 94 runs at the cost of only three wickets before time ran out.

George Payne of Five C's and Bob Mainwaring of Albions were the leading batters. Payne hit seven sixes and five fours as he scored 88 runs, not out. Mainwaring had 45 runs, not out.

Belfast Team May Play City Rugby XV

Queen's University of Belfast has accepted an invitation from the British Columbia Rugby Union to play four matches in B.C. about next Easter.

An official of the Victoria Rugby Union stated last night that the touring Ireland XV may come to Victoria to play an all-star team providing the guarantee can be raised.

Tentative games have been lined up against U.B.C. Thunderbirds, Vancouver reps and a British Columbia all-star team.

Fourteen City Golfers Best Hogan's Par 71 at Dallas

A total of 125 Victoria golfers tried to beat Ben Hogan in a novel trans-continental golf match yesterday.

Fourteen of them succeeded and will be entitled to wear medals stating "I Beat Ben Hogan."

An estimated 300,000 golfers from all parts of Canada and the United States paid $1.00 each for the privilege of trying to better Hogan's score over the 6,811-yard Northwood course at Dallas, Texas.

Proceeds in Canada will be divided equally between the Red Cross and the Royal Canadian Golf Association for junior development. U.S. proceeds will be split between the U.S.O. and the National Golf Fund.

Hogan hurried through his round in a temperature of 87 degrees to post a par 71. Reports from across the country indicate that his score was beaten by many. Scores as low as 58 counting handicaps were reported.

LARGEST ENTRIES

The Victoria and Uplands Golf Clubs had the largest city representation with 49 members attempting the feat at each of the courses. Fifteen tried it at Colwood and 12 at Gorge Vale.

Hogan took his worst Victoria beating at the Victoria Golf Club where eight divoters bettered his score. H. F. Hepburn, a 16-handicap player, was low with a net 66. Others to beat him were: Gordon Verley, 71-4—67; C. W. Walker, 83-15—68; Colin Hart, 79-11—68; George Bigelow, 73-4—69; D. C. Matheson, 84-14—70; Dr. R. H. Lyon, 88-18—70; and J. R. Murray, 84-14—70.

Don Woodhouse and Dr. Jack Calvert were the only Uplands members to best Hogan's score. Woodhouse carded a 78-9—69 and Calvert turned in a card of 83-13—70.

Bill Martin was the sole Gorge Vale golfer to accomplish the feat, displaying a card of 83-14—69.

Only scores available at Colwood showed three golfers with cards better than Hogan's. Jim Robertson matched Hogan's gross score and turned in a net 68, including a three-stroke handicap. Vic Painter carded 76-7—69 and Jim Simpson 86-16—70.

Five other city golfers matched Hogan's score. D. Brynjolfson, A. S. G. Musgrave and Bill Newcombe equalled it at the Victoria Golf Club. Elmer Hume did it at Gorge Vale and Charlie Jordan tied it at Uplands.

Hogan's card follows:

Par Out	454	435	443	—38
Hogan Out	444	435	443	—38
Par In	443	454	344	—35—71
Hogan In	432	444	444	—37—71

Golfer Loses $280 for Ace

SUNNINGDALE, Eng., May 31. (AP).—The Sunningdale Golf Club held a hole-in-one competition today, offering 2,000 to 1 against any member holing out in three tries at the 154-yard first hole.

For an entrance fee of one shilling (14 cents) the club said it would pay £100 ($280) to every scorer of an ace.

Two hundred tried and failed. In the gathering dusk John Van Zwanenburg, 42, went off the first tee and holed out with his third shot.

But Zwanenburg didn't collect. He'd forgotten to pay the shilling entry.

Victorian Convinced 'Spurs Best

"Tell them not to miss this one," an enthusiastic Jock Munro told the Colonist sports staff last night. He was referring to tomorrow's exhibition soccer match at Royal Athletic Park, where Victoria All-Stars entertain England's famed Tottenham Hotspurs.

A soccer bug who has played for and managed New Westminster Royals, Munro unhesitatingly branded the 'Spurs as the best soccer club he has seen in action anywhere after watching them freeze to a 9-2 victory over the strong Mainland All-Stars last night at Vancouver.

"They're tremendous," Munro enthused. "They could spot Fulham four goals any time. The fans are in for a real treat for this is without a doubt the best team that has ever been brought to Canada."

Describing the 'Spurs' style of play, Munro said: "They've taken the Scottish short-passing game and added English speed and produced a brand-new game which is terrific in its scoring potential. They never beat a man, the ball does it. Every pass is taken in full flight. They're just terrific."

Munro ran out of superlatvies about here.

"Tell them not to miss it."

Mainland All-Stars Get 9-2 Soccer Lesson

Special to the Colonist

VANCOUVER, May 31 — Tottenham Hotspurs toyed with a Vancouver all-star side today, scoring a 9-2 triumph with a brilliant display of football which left a crowd of more than 10,000 at Callister Park unanimous in the opinion that this was the finest team ever to play in Vancouver.

Teamwork was the keynote in the wonderful short-passing game which has made the 'Spurs one of the two or three top English teams. Players interchanged positions almost uncannily to completely befuddle the Vancouver defense at times and the ball was kept on the ground in the ever-moving attack, in which passers found their teammates almost without miss. There was no great individual star such as Jackie Milburn of Newcastle United. Every man was a star in a truly impressive performance.

FOUR FOR BENNETT

Inside-right Les Bennett, who scored four goals, was the kingpin of the attack and Harry Clarke, the towering centre-half, spearheaded a defense which completely bottled up the Vancouver attack until 'Spurs relaxed a bit with a 9-0 lead and indulged a bit in some extravagancy footwork.

Catching the eye, too, was the tricky work of Tommy Harmer, who started at inside left for international Ed Baily. Harmer scored once as did Sonny Walters and Alf Ramsey, England's international fullback, who netted a penalty kick. The other two goals went to Len Duquemin, centre-forward.

Dave Brown crashed a drive inches outside the post in the early minutes as Vancouver missed a chance to go ahead and goalie Ted Ditchburn saved from Gogie Stewart just after Bennett had headed in a centre from Walters.

The second goal didn't come until 30 minutes, 25 minutes after the first. Duquemin picked up his own rebound off an upright to steer the ball home. A minute later, Harmer centred for Walters and then made it 4-0 four minutes after that. Duquemin got his second to leave it 5-0 at the half.

Bennett scored from Walters two minutes after resumption and seven minutes later made it 7-0 by heading in a free kick taken by Ramsey. Les Medley was tripped in the penalty area by John Dunn a minute later and Ramsey cooly placed a slow roller in the corner from the spot.

Bennett soon made it 9-0 and from there the 'Spurs took it easy. Denny Rogers spoiled Ditchburn's shutout record at 32 minutes with a blazing drive and got the second Vancouver goal a minute from time when his shot caromed in off an upright.

The teams:

B.C. Mainland All-Stars—Bob Newbold; Ian Douglas, Buster Cairns, Wes Henderson, John Dunn, Don Matheson (Capt.), Denny Rogers, Gogie Stewart, Frank Ainsley, Dave Brown, and Ivan Carr.

Referee—Dan Kulai.

Victoria XI Can Expect Retribution

Most brilliant touring team to play in Canada in years is unanimous verdict on Tottenham Hotspur, who will meet Victoria All-Stars at Royal Athletic Park tomogrow night at 7.

Everything is set for the big match although starting line-ups were not available last night. Dave Turner, manager of the Victoria team, apparently decided to see if he could "dream" up his starting line-up over the week end while Tottenham officals could not be reached.

However, Victoria can expect to see one of Tottenham's strongest sides in action. Judging from scores in the games they have played to date, the 'Spurs have no intention of even coming close to losing. And fresh in their mind, too, will be the 1-0 defeat which Fulham unexpectedly suffered here last year. The All-Stars can reasonably be expected to face a club which will try and erase that embarrassment to their London neighbors, who apparently never recovered and were relegated to the Division II this season.

Tickets have been going fast and a good crowd is assured. They will be on sale today at 825 Fort Street.

ALCOS LINE-UP

Garriott Retains Batting Lead

Latest official W.I.L. averages, which include games through Monday, disclose Cece Garriott, manager of the Victoria Tyees, is leading the league in hitting with an average of .390. Garriott, hower, is being pressed by Walt Pocekay, Wenatchee catcher, who has been hitting more of late to boom his batting mark to .381.

Pocekay has also taken over from Garriott as the player with the most hits and in total bases. He has hit safely 51 times and made his hits good for 75 bases. However, Pocekay's hit total is matched by Bill Andring, Yakima outfielder.

INDIVIDUAL LEADERS

Garriott leads in doubles with 13 and Jerry Zuvela, Yakima outfielder, and John Ritchey, Vancouver catcher, are tied for the lead in triples with four each. Seven players, including Victorians Milt Martin, Garriott and Granny Gladstone, have hit three home runs. Vic Buccola, Tri-City first-baseman, is the leader in stolen bases with 13.

Mel Wasley, Spokane's veteran outfielder, has taken over the club batting lead from Victoria's Chuck Abernathy. Wasley has 37 with Abernathy having 34, according to the official list. Garriott also leads in runs scored.

Team averages show just why Victoria is leading the league. The Tyees are seventh in team fielding with .918 and 67 errors in the 32 games played when the averages were compiled. However, they lead in most offensive departments—runs scored, total bases, hits and doubles and their .295 team batting average is 18 points more than runner-up Lewiston and 70 points better than Tri-City, the league's "hit-less wonders."

Ward Blasts Stranahan In British Amateur Final

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 31 (AP).—Salesman Harvie Ward of Tarboro, N.C., won the British Amateur Golf championship today by whipping defending champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, 3 and 2 in the 36-hole final.

The harassed Stranahan couldn't get the bugs out of his driving during the entire match and conceded on the 31st green.

It was a crushing defeat for the famed United States amateur, who was seeking his third British title.

Ward, former winner of the U.S. intercollegiate crown, shook off an early case of putting jitters to finish with a spectacular streak of birdies and pars.

He was four under fours—the golfer's yardstick of excellence—from the 14th through the 27th holes.

ROUGH ROUND

Stranahan, winner of this historic event in 1948 and 1950, suffered a streak of wildness off the tee.

He missed almost half the fairways, banged into six bunkers, once drove into a sand dune and repeatedly caught the rough on his drives.

Ward, ignored when the U.S. was picking its Walker Cup team last year, becomes the 11th American [illegible] Sweetser took it in 1926.

This was the third straight all-U.S. final and the fourth in the last six years.

Previous American winners were: Jesse W. Sweetser, 1926; Bob Jones, 1930; Lawson Little, 1934 and 1935; Robert Sweeny, 1937; Charlie Yates, 1938; Willie Turnesa, 1947; Stranahan, 1948 and 1950; Dick Chapman, 1951. Australian-born Walter Travis, represented the U.S. when he won in 1904.

Cards of today's final follows:

Metric Measure in Use For Olympic Trial Meet

The Olympic Preview track meet which will be held at the Victoria High School Gyro track Saturday, June 14, will have all running events over the metric distances.

The change has been made since this is the first of a series of trials to determine the B.C. representative team to compete in the Hamilton Olympic trials.

So that track fans can get used to the new distances, here is a list of comparisons with the usual races in yards and the Olympic standards, necessary for final selection:

100 metres — 109 yards 1 foot — 10.7 seconds.
200 metres—218 yards 2 feet—21.7 seconds.
400 metres—437 yards 1 foot—48.7 seconds.
800 metres—875 yards—1.53.8.
1,500 metres—1,640 yards 1 foot—3.54.8.
5,000 metres—3 miles 232 yards—14.55.

Performing in all open events in the preview meet will be men who have a definite chance of meeting these standards.

In the 100 and 200 metres, Victoria's Bob Hutchison, the present Canadian champion, and Vancouver's Bruce Springbett are both threats.

The 400 metres will feature veteran Olympic and Empire Games runner Ez Henniger of Vancouver Olympic Club who will also contest the 800 metre [illegible] The 400 metres will also have last year's Joe Addison Trophy winner Doug Clement, who has moved into senior company and who will be making a big bid for a place on the B.C. team. Present 440 and 880 champion Joe Isherwood of Nanaimo will defend his honors in both the 400 and 800 metres.

The 1,500 metres, which is always an Olympic classic, will feature Empire Games mile champion Bill Parnell and B.C. mile champion Phil Matson who both have an excellent chance of making the Olympic team.

The 5,000 metres will have another Olympic veteran in the field in popular Victoria runner Cliff Salmond.

Events in the junior section of the meet should prove just as exciting as the senior races as all B.C. high school champions and near champions have received entry forms. The Victoria Y Trophy, now held by Victoria High School, will be at stake for the junior team score.

Savitt, Mulloy Gain Finals In Paris Meet

PARIS May 31 (AP).—Dick Savitt, and Gardnar Mulloy, both of whom were eliminated in singles play, combined today to gain the final round in the doubles competition in the French international tennis tournament.

In a semi-final match, the American veterans whipped Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-4, 8-6. Earlier, Savitt and Mulloy defeated France's Robert Abdesselam and Jean Bortora, 12-14, 6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, in a quarter-final match resumed from yesterday.

Australia's magnificent Davis Cup doubles team of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor also gained the finals with a 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 6-0 victory over countrymen Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall.

The men's doubles final, as well as the women's will be played Monday. The singles titles will be decided tomorrow, with Sedgman meeting Drobny and Shirley Fry meeting Doris Hart.

Misses Hart and Fry moved into the finals of the doubles today by whipping Mlle. Arlette Halff and Mme. Annie Marie Seghers of France, 6-0, 6-1.

They'll meet the South African team of Mrs. Hazel Redwick-Smith and Julia Whipplinger, who defeated Mrs. Tony Mottram and Pat Ward of Great Britain, 6-3, 6-2.

Chinooks Win Opening Game

Chinooks made their first start in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League a victorious one by thumping Eagles, 14-4, at Royal Athletic Park Friday night.

Paul Beck started on the mound for Chinooks but was relieved by Stan Davies in the fifth. However, he strayed around long enough to get credit for the win. Jim Thompson went the distance for the losers.

Chinooks assisted their hurlers with a 14-hit attack. Ed Sheppard set the hitting pace with four safeties, including two doubles. Bill Robinson got two of Eagles' four hits.

Mangrum Retains Lead, Snead, Middlecoff Quit

ST. LOUIS, May 31 (AP).—Westwood Country Club's stubborn par 70 finally caught up with steady Lloyd Mangrum today, but he stayed even for 54 holes with a 210 to retain his lead in the 49th Western Open Golf Tournament.

As the tourney swings into the fourth and final 18-hole round tomorrow, Bobby Locke is five strokes back in No. 2 position with a 215 total.

Mangrum strayed on the back nine today to finish with a two over par 72. It gave him a 68-70-72—210.

Locke toured the 6,618-yard course in par, his best record in the competition, to jump ahead from yesterday's ninth place standing. Locke managed to grab second place away from Roberto Devicenzo, who also had trouble on the back nine and finished with a 74 that put him in an eight-way tie for third with a 216 score.

Others in the third-place tie are Henry Ransom, Tommy Bolt, Ted Kroll, Shelley Mayfield, Freddie Haas, Earl Wilde and Al Besselink.

The field, pared to 63 after 36 holes, lost two big names today—Sammy Snead, two-time Western champ and favored for a third crown, and the golfing dentist, Dr. Cary Middlecoff.

Middlecoff left after carding a 76 today, his worst round, giving him a 223 for the 54 holes.

Malayans Lead U.S. Team In Thomas Cup

SINGAPORE, May 31 (AP).—Malaya's world champion badminton team swept into a 3-1 lead over the United States tonight before some 8,000 spectators in the finals for the Thomas Cup.

The lone American victory came in the doubles, when Wynn Rogers of Arcadia, Calif., and Bob Williams of Buffalo, N.Y., defeated Chan Kong Leong and Abdullah Piruz, 15-9, 16-18, 15-9.

In the second doubles match, Omohpto Lim and Ismail Bin Marjan whipped Carl Loveday of Pacific Beach, Calif., and Dick Mitchell of San Diego, Calif., 15-5, 15-4.

The U.S. lost both singles matches.

The American singles champion, Marten Mendez of San Diego, Calif., played well but was no match for Wong Peng Soon, who won, 15-1, 15-10.

In the other singles match, Oh Teik Hock defeated Mitchell, 15-9, 15-11.

Saanich, Esquimalt Win Pee-Wee Lacrosse Games

Saanich and Esquimalt scored victories in the pee wee division of the Greater Victoria Box Lacrosse Association at Stevenson Park yesterday morning.

Saanich thumped Fernwood, 11-4, and Esquimalt sneaked a 3-2 victory from Fairfield.

Rod Skillings and Tom Cohett each scored four goals for Saanich, Barry Waters had two and Glen Robbins scored the other. Adam Simpson tallied three markers for the losers and Al Hayton netted the other.

Bob Rothery, Jack Shaw and Barry Laughlean were the Esquimalt goal-getters and Brian O'Hare scored both Fairfield tallies.

In the bantam division, Oak Bay defeated Fernwood, 7-5, and Fairfield and Saanich battled to an 8-8 deadlock.

Scorers for Oak Bay were Jack Wilson (2), Barry Johnson (2), Dick Austin, Laurie Austin and Jack Showers; for Fernwood, Ken Watson (2), Tom Evans, Sid Watson and Ed Kowalyk; for Fairfield, Don Heywood (2), Stu Smith (2), R. Meeker (2), Arnold Walker and George Bryce; for Saanich Ken Stewart (2), Wayne Bedynsky (2), Bob Craigdaille (2), R. Marshall and F. Taylor.

Canvasbacks Turn Chicken

Aspersions have been cast on the courage of Beacon Hill Park ducks who up to now have never ducked a battle.

Visitors to the park said yesterday the ducks were being halted in their webfooted tracks by giant carp inhabiting Goodacre Pond. They (the visitors) charge the carp are beating the ducks to food tossed into the pond.

The boats start for the food the bird lovers said but seem afraid of the carp and sheer off before reaching the food.

Authorities said there were carp, catfish and goldfish in the park pond.

But the carp were the real tough customers they said.

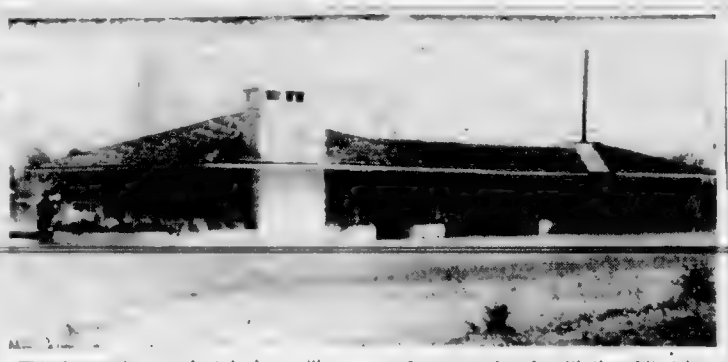
B.C. Pioneers This Canadian Architecture



This impressive ranch-style home illustrates the new trend in Canadian architecture found in every province—but predominantly in British Columbia. Its rough cedar siding and weathered shake roof contrast sharply with the white trim and brick of the chimney and flower wall. Notice that the brick planting area forms an important part of the interior decorating scheme as well.

Measurements of the house and details are shown in this floor plan

City Meeting Scheduled On Plebiscite

Citizens rally on the coming liquor plebiscite June 12 will be held at First United Church at 8 p.m., Thursday with two Vancouver speakers featured.

The rally is sponsored by the Greater Victoria Citizens' Association which is planning for a "no" vote on the plebiscite and has announced itself a foe of more liquor outlets in this area. The district's special committee studies the problem.

Chief speaker is George S. Hougham, former manager of the Canadian Restaurant Owners' Association and one-time general manager of the Canadian Retail Association.

The restaurant owners have been reported seeking a "yes" vote on the plebiscite in competition with Vancouver citizens' committee for common sense Liquor Laws.

Mr. Hougham was a resident of British Columbia for 14 years, then of Ontario for 22 years. He has been back in B.C. for the last two years.

TO SEEK ANSWER

He will try to answer the question "Will more liquor outlets promote temperance?"

His appearance here and that of co-speaker Rev. Stanley Higgs, rector of St. Michael's Anglican Church, Vancouver, is supported by the Alcoholic Research Foundation of B.C. of which Mr. Higgs is an executive committee member.

Ray Whellams, president of the Greater Victoria Citizens' Association, said the public would be invited to take part in a question period after the two speakers had gone into "all details of the plebiscite situation."

Painting Job On Furniture Helps Home

Today's paint-it-yourself trend, born of a new freedom with color as well as the need to cut costs, has aroused a new appreciation of painted furniture.

Unpainted furniture in both modern and period designs is available for every room in the house. It is inexpensive and can be painted in colors to fit the room scheme and to express the originality of the homemaker.

A unified decorative effect can be achieved at small cost by painting furniture to repeat the colors of the room's drapery and slipcover material . . . a floral chintz, for example.

The furniture might be painted to match the background color of the fabric and molding panels and drawer pulls painted in one of the flower colors of the fabric. This will make a delightful bedroom.

Firefighting Costs Increase

British Columbia's firefighting costs are climbing sharply this year according to the B.C. Forest Service reports.

Estimated costs to date total $41,824 in fighting 243 fires. Last year in the same period costs were about $16,000 in fighting 274 fires.

Vancouver forest district which includes Vancouver Island has reported 19 fires at a cost of $419 since the forest season began May 1.

Most fires have occurred in the Fort George area, 94 costing $10,010. Fires and costs in other districts have been as follows: Prince Rupert 21 $[illegible], Kamloops 61 $1,801, Nelson 2 $[illegible].

Fifteen fires occurred last week. Thirty fires were burning from the previous week. Forest service men, however, extinguished 30 blazes during the week.

Charles Is 12-5 Choice To Regain Boxing Crown

PHILADELPHIA, May 31 (AP) — Ezzard Charles rates a 12-5 favorite to upset the tradition of the Philadelphia-Camden area in the prize ring Thursday night by becoming the first former heavyweight champion to win back the title.

In the same moonlight stadium where Jersey Joe Walcott knocked out Joe Louis to win the crown from him [illegible] years ago, 36-year-old Jersey Joe Walcott will defend his title for the first time.

The record book says Charles, the 30-year-old ex-champ, must fail to regain the heavyweight title as Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Max Schmeling, Joe Louis and Floyd Patterson have before him.

Despite history and the memories of the crashing [illegible] who knocked out Charles in Pittsburgh last [illegible] Charles remains a strong betting favorite.

Promoter [illegible] expects about 25,000 people to pay at least $5,000 to see the 61st chapter of the Walcott-Charles series. The promoter offers announced a gate of $100,000, with a $20 top [illegible].

The fight will be seen on television starting at 10 p.m. E.D.T. except for a [illegible] blackout in the Philadelphia-Camden area. In the event of rain the show will be shifted to Friday night.

WALCOTT INACTIVE

Jersey Joe Walcott [illegible] his [illegible] chance to win back the crown. He has not had a fight since he knocked out Lee Savold in Detroit last December. He has been touring the country [illegible] boxing clubs and staging exhibitions to make speaking appearances and occasional exhibitions.

Charles has been more active. He knocked out Rex Layne at Pittsburgh in October. He whipped Joe Maxim, the light-heavyweight king, in his fourth at San Francisco. He knocked out Joe Kahut at Portland in December.

The official announcements of each fighter will get 30 per cent of the gate, TV and radio rights. These payments Charles and Walcott figure, topped by a $40,000 guarantee to Charles, who is the heavyweight champion, for Louis' coming fight, should have grossed a total of $[illegible].

Briton Whips Gehrmann Easily in Metric Mile

LONDON, May 31 (AP) — Bill Nankeville, 26-year-old British miner, rested off a special bar 349 coasting in the 1,500-metre international mile in 3 minutes 48.8 seconds, fastest of today's British track and field games at White City Stadium. Seldom the fastest for London's coveted Lee track was made sizzling by rain.

Independents Divided on Liquor

Victoria's two independent provincial election candidates have split over the election liquor plebiscite and one of them has challenged Education Minister W. T. Straith to a public debate on religious education in schools.

W. A. Scott said last night that although he opposed a drink law he would fight for a "no" vote on the liquor plebiscite.

His independent opposing candidate, P. B. Freedman, who describes himself as "a lifelong teetotaler," announced at the same time that he would fight just as hard for a "yes" vote.

Mr. Scott said that he would campaign for a "no" vote, then afterward urge P.T.A. groups, welfare people, churches and unions to frame the type of liquor law they thought the province should have and demand that the government adopt it.

INSIDIOUS SCHEME

Mr. Freedman said he favored sale of liquor by the glass and was opposed to campaigns for a "no" vote, which he called "an insidious scheme."

"Religion and liquor don't mix" after Mr. Scott had asked him how morals were to be taught in schools without Christian instruction.

"Mr. Straith has departed from the great Liberal tradition which stood for religious tolerance and the need for religious education in schools," Mr. Scott charged.

Mr. Scott said that famous Liberal thinkers in the past who had spoken out for assertion of practical Christianity in schools included George Washington, Gladstone, Goethe, Joseph Conrad, Sir Isaac Newton, Patrick Henry, Condorcet, Sir Francis Bacon, Lord Byron, Addison, Daniel Webster, Voltaire, Edmund Burke, Pasteur, Carlyle, John Dewey and H. G. Wells.

Massive Load of Papers Sent Out for Election

Nearly 600 pieces of express, about a freight carload of election papers have been sent throughout the province, it was reported yesterday.

Remaining forms to be sent out are those for areas close to Victoria, office of the chief electoral officer disclosed.

The report also noted that more than 2,600,000 ballots will be distributed. The plebiscites on liquor and daylight saving are each covered by 92,000 ballots. More than 500,000 additional ballots will be used for single member ridings and more than 300,000 ballots for multiple member ridings.

As many as six types of ballots will be handled by returning officers in multiple-member ridings. They include those for the plebiscites, up to three ballots listing candidates and absentee voters' ballots.

A total of 212 candidates is entered throughout the province. North Vancouver, a single-member riding will have the most candidates listed on the ballot. Seven candidates have been nominated and at counting of all ballots, as many as 14 scrutineers may be present.

SCRUTINEER RULES

Each candidate may have one scrutineer while on the plebiscites, organizations for and against the questions may nominate one scrutineer each, if they wish. Appointment of the ballot persons would be by the returning officer on application to him by the interested organization.

Colors will predominate also on voting day. Ballots for the daylight saving question will be yellow, and those for the liquor question, green.

Ballots for candidates in single-member ridings will be printed in black and white. Multiple-member ridings will have at least pink and india colored ballots and where a third member is to be elected, the third ballot listing candidates will be blue.

So far few questions have been received from returning officers concerning the alternative voting system count, it was reported.

Some organizations however have sent questions concerning use of ballots and they have been answered.

Island Farms Number 2,739, Report Shows

Vancouver and Gulf Islands have 2,739 farms, according to information compiled by the provincial agriculture department from the recent census.

Farms in 1941 numbered 2,773. Acreage occupied by the farms present is 182,755, while the 1941 acreage occupied totaled [illegible].

For census purposes, a farm is defined as a holding on which agricultural operations are carried out. It must be three acres or more, or of one to three acres from which 1950 production revenue amounted to $250 or more.

Sunstroke Kills British Airman

DAKAR, French West Africa, May 31 (AP) — The forced landing of a British airliner at the edge of the Sahara Desert last Monday claimed its first victim today. A member of the crew died of sunstroke. The plane carrying 18 persons went down 1,300 miles off course and officials still are trying to figure out how it got there.

Canadian firms manufacture about 28,000 portable typewriters each year.

Making a Lighting Bug

THERE are more efficient sources of light, but a candle bug is a very useful item that is used extensively by campers. Candles are not subject to mechanical failures, don't spoil with moisture and are light to carry. They should be taken along whenever you go camping regardless of what other source of light you have provided.

The necessary tin can to make the bug is often available in your equipment. A honey can or coffee can is ideal for the purpose but any wash a bright lacquered interior and large enough to prevent overheating will be satisfactory.

CUTTING CAN

To make the bug, cut a cross through the side of the can at a point a little ahead of centre. This will give a better beam of light and prevent reflected heat from melting the candle. Bend inwards the four triangular points of tin formed by the cross and push the candle through the square hole. If the base is too large, the points can be pushed together to grip the candle. Now punch a small hole in both ends of the can to hold the wire handle. If no wire is available, a bent twig will be suitable for this purpose. The completed candle bug is shown in the illustration and the best burning position for the wick is slightly below centre.

When making a bug, don't make any of the holes too large or a draft will blow through, chill the can and cause uneven burning or blow the light out. Wind blowing over a bug will not blow it out because the dead air space behind the candle builds up a pressure that exists on all surfaces. As your candle burns down, you are able to push it through, from the bottom, to keep the wick at approximately the correct height.

CARRYING BUG

It is best to carry a bug so that it is always hanging slightly. By doing this, any smoke will escape in a hurry and prevent blackening the reflecting inside surfaces. Also, any surplus melted wax will run back and can be saved. Melted candle wax should never be thrown away. It is valuable as an aid to starting a fire with damp fuel, or it can be molded into a tin cup, a short wick inserted and, on cooling, you have a home-made candle light in the cup that is very efficient.

Although candle bugs are safe to carry, be careful not to put out down on unfamiliar forest, the metals and dust bags, it up on a swing and place it burning. Forest fires are very easy to start and are an enemy of everyone.

Helping People to Help Themselves

DESPITE the rapid advance of technology during the past two or three centuries, much less than half of the world's population are enjoying the material and social benefits created by the application of modern scientific techniques in industry, agriculture, public administration, health and related fields. The rest of the world's inhabitants — more than one and a half billion people — continue to live as they did centuries ago, many of them in need of the bare necessities of life.

Well aware of this situation, the United Nations has launched a program of technical assistance to aid in the economic development of underdeveloped countries. In cooperation with its related agencies, United Nations today has aided a total of 70 countries and territories providing them with experts on matters ranging from tax administration to storage industries, from how to take a census to tapping underground water in the desert. In addition, a total of about 1,000 international fellowships and scholarships have been awarded in the fields of economic development, public administration and social welfare.

United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie has said that apart from the urgent political questions there is perhaps a need of the world, of the United Nations, that should attract more support than its technical assistance program. The fundamental thesis of this program is to help people to help themselves by introducing them to simple and organizational techniques best suited for the most effective economic use of their own resources, personnel and industries.

This is the purpose of technical assistance: the job of imparting scientific knowledge, technique or skill and operational know-how available to countries needing them. This is not by any means all the help that is needed for backward countries to develop their economies, but it is a vital factor. A [illegible] is needed [illegible] of economic development [illegible] the [illegible] of the possible steps [illegible] of a [illegible] plan.

Through the many agencies and specialized agencies United Nations works in many different ways to raise the world's standard of living. The basic idea is that, wherever possible, the help given should be of a kind which will enable the people of a country to help themselves.

Seed from the most commonly grown types of hybrid corn has been supplied to Italy by the United States through the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (F.A.O.). This seed is now being tested in various parts of Italy for adaptability to that country's soil.

Stamp Packet

BY R. M. ANGUS

So much criticism has been poured on the head of a stamp issued by [illegible] that it has even [illegible] been withdrawn from circulation. We refer to the 10c value depicting an alleged aardvark. The artist who drew this design was certainly no naturalist and his idea of an aardvark was taken from some comic strip. Sarawak, playing for safety, has [illegible] showing a [illegible] which was issued some time in February last. Who's not expecting the aardvark stamp to become [illegible] at this late it might be a good [illegible] to get a [illegible] now if you haven't it a [illegible] and even suggest giving away a few spare copies.

The four value set issued by Barbados recently is a very pleasing design, the first type of that possession being delineated in a standing position, as the main feature of the stamp is opened to a portrait of the arms [illegible]. It is the intention of Fiji to issue [illegible] stamps and artists are already being asked to submit designs for the set of two to be issued later in the year. A prize of $50 is offered for each design chosen.

North Borneo has issued the 50c value with the spelling of Jesselton corrected. It will be remembered that the original design wrongly spelled the name "Jesselton." Coronation: Event of a Century

Preparations Are Already Underway in London for This Great Spectacle. Mountain of Work for Those Who Make Documents

By JAMES DOW

LONDON. The letter from Clarence House said "Her Majesty would be very pleased if the Coronation robe could be made with silk from the Kent farm."

It was addressed to Britain's only silkworm farm at Eynsford. The Queen herself, looking ahead to the multiplicity of detail involved in the Coronation, has set the ball rolling.

Next year's Coronation is clearly being recognized by the astonishing number of people directly or indirectly concerned as the event of the century. Television experts are planning to relay transmission by aircraft to give 150,000,000 Americans close views of the crowning of the Queen while the ceremony is going on.

Few realize how much preparation work in so many offices, factories and workshops is entailed.

BUNTING, FLAGS

With the Coronation commission announced, calico printers in stamp-hit Lancashire began to pile up thousands of rolls of bunting and flags. The gold lace maker, C. L. Hislop, has his skilled craftsmen busy at looms in London's Covent Garden.

In the College of Arms (Heralds' College), old records, deeds and documents have been dusted off and checking is going on of the available supply of extra copper-plate writers needed for the mass of proclamations and summonses to peers that will still be written in machine-defying script.

Dramatic new history will be added to ancient tradition when the television engineers complete their spectacular plans. Aircraft flying at heights of eight to ten miles above the Atlantic can and, the foulest weather permitting, will relay the transmission. One plane will pick up the view in Westminster Abbey and along the processional route and retransmit it to a television receiver in the next plane.

FOR TELEVISION

For the first time in history, scores of Americans (before breakfast) in effect will be taking part as witnesses in a Coronation. A quarter of a million Americans will pay to watch the procession at $5.88 a seat among the chimney pots down to $147 on the ground floor.

From all over the world applications have been pouring into Britain for the privilege of filling one of the nooks and crannies which will line the procession route. Ticket agencies and travel offices, gambling that the path of the Royal procession will be the same as in 1937 have viewed with critical eyes the rooftops, balconies and windows which stretch from the Abbey to Buckingham Palace via the Thames Embankment, Trafalgar Square, Piccadilly, Oxford Circus, Marble Arch, Hyde Park and Constitution Hill.

Already 10,000 people of all nationalities have made firm registrations for any seats which become available and more than 30,000 others have written asking for details as soon as they are known. Booking has begun at the big hotels. Some already could have been booked five times over.

WORK FOR EXPERTS

For all the conglomeration of rigid custom, quaint offices and titles involved, the Coronation itself is the smoothly devetailed work of hundreds of experts. The supreme organizer, the Duke of Norfolk, mobbed by the crowd calling "Well done Bernard," after the 1937 Coronation, now he organizes a world of [illegible] and objects for Earl Marshal's office.

The Earl Marshal decides, among other things, the costumes to be worn by peeresses. In 1937 there was a change. "Five lappets (flags) would be worn on the kirtles," and on a previous occasion "the petticoat might have nice embroidery or brocade." Parent would not be correct to produce any order.

Coronation robes for peers and peeresses will cost from $215 a baron to $1,017 a duchess.

The 1,200 peers and peeresses in their own right (who may bring their husbands) are not invited, but summoned to the Coronation. "To make your personal attendance on us." All expenses self-paid. Which makes it a command that can be denied only by illness. The Duke of Norfolk signs each copper plate invitations and sends out other invitations to the completely treeated Abbey. Questions of precedence and of passes mean heavy and careful scrutiny.

THE PROCESSION

For a two-mile long procession working inflexibly on the maxim "The Royal coach must never halt," more vast planning soon will be started at the War Office. Ministry of Works architects are busy designing stands and decorations for the route.

Royal gardeners are planning to deck the facades. Musicians will compose new settings for the Coronation music.

Scotland Yard has begun a general combing out of suspicious characters in Westminster and all those who fatten illegally on crowds.

Claims for the right by ancient title to take part in the ceremonial soon will be pouring into the Court of Claims set up under the lord chancellor. Lawyers will argue before the court to establish who will be the Queen's dispenser, pageter, glove, sergeant, saucerer, keeper of the falcons, marshal of the hawks and, among other things, sergeant of the silver scullery (claim last made at the Coronation of George IV and disallowed).

The Duke of Atholl and Earl of Derby can each claim the right to present the Queen with two falcons on Coronation morning and the Dean of Westminster is entitled to claim wine, fish and bread from the Queen on Coronation Day.

What you may ask, is the cause of these outmoded offices and functions? The answer is that they are all part and parcel of the subjects inalienable (and indivisible) rights to share in the symbolism and significance of monarchy.

Men will not be lacking to demand the privilege of standing beside their young Queen on her greatest, and most exacting hour.

The king cobra is one of the dead-est of the snakes. When threatening to strike it raises itself about five feet and spreads its hood. Its bite can be fatal in a few hours.

* * *

* * *

The bald eagle is an excellent fish and all-purpose parasite. It will not descend to hunting down in the tree on which they are nesting—it flames.

Green Onions Favored as Continuous Garden Crop

PERENNIAL onions grown from Egyptian top sets give the first vegetable crop of the year. Green onions grown from bottom sets planted early are produced in three weeks from the time of sowing. Although the rest of the year it is possible to provide the indispensable onion flavor for various members of the onion tribe.

This flavor can be produced by some of the cousins in a form which may be more acceptable to you than in the onion. Chives for example, are milder, much less odorous, and especially good in salads and cottage cheese. Leeks are preferred by the British for flavoring cooked dishes. And you must know about garlic of which you can grow a year's supply in about one foot of garden row planted to garlic sets.

Top onion sets produced by perennial varieties instead of seeds may be planted in the fall and will produce green onions before the ground can be worked in the spring. Bottom sets, which are really dwarf onions checked in growth by crowding in the row, may be planted in the spring as soon as the ground is prepared.

The smaller sets sown an inch deep will produce mature onions in two months much quicker than you can grow them from seed. Use the larger sets for green onions, and plant them deeper as much as three inches. They grow quickly but usually run to seed and will not produce large bulbs. From onion seed you can grow either green or mature onions, but it will take six weeks for the first, and four months for the others.

Onion points of Spanish and Bermuda varieties are shipped from Texas each spring to be planted in gardens. You can grow your own Spanish onion points in a flat started early in the house or hotbed sowing them out when they are pencil size. It will take all season to mature nearly good size bulbs but you can feed some of them and win prizes in the harvest show.

Chives are perennial and besides producing tender leaves they bear lovely mauve blossoms. You can start them from seed or to dividing the roots of established plants and they will form a most attractive border for a garden path lasting many years.

Leeks are grown from seed and should be transplanted for best results. The English gardeners blanch themselves on exhibition leeks which may be grown in this manner. When the plants are about as large as a lead pencil, dig them and set each one in a hole made with a dibber. Do not fill the hole but merely cover the roots of the leeks with earth and let the hole fill naturally. In fall up the leeks will grow to a diameter of an inch or more.

Staking Your Tomato Vines

To stake or not to stake tomatoes has been debated by home gardeners. Those in favor of it claim that staking saves space, keeps fruit clean, lessens danger of losses from rot. Those against staking say it takes too much time and labor.

Here's the final answer. Tests show that tomatoes from staked vines are consistently higher in vitamin C.

The reason? Because staked tomatoes get more sunshine than those on vines allowed to spread on the ground.

Use strong stakes. Each stake should be five or six feet long and set into the ground to a depth of 18 inches. Use strips of cloth to tie the plant to the stake in several places. Tie loosely.

First make a loop around the stem with a cloth strip, then make a loop around the plant stem and tie ends of the stake. The loop around the stem should be tight to prevent slipping down that around the plant stem should be firmly tied to prevent bruising or breaking.

Staked tomatoes will do better if you give them a "coat" of pruning as they grow. Cut off each fall suckers at leaf points. Keep removing suckers until the fruiting period is over, advised. If this is too long the suckers will cap the plants strength and the fruits produced will be small and poor in quality.

Tomato suckers grow on the joints of the stem between the leaf and the main stalk. The true fruiting spurs come directly from the stem on the opposite side and where there is no leaf stem.

Leads Ice Cream

British Columbians are the heaviest consumers of ice cream in Canada on a per capita basis we consume 16.7 pints per year, nearly double the figure for the lowest consuming province, Quebec. In the 10-year period 1941-51 per capita consumption in this province jumped 8 per cent. For all Canada consumption rose 51 per cent, from 9.85 to 14.82 pints per year.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTES

Disease-Resistant Berry Is Aim of Pathologists

Experiments conducted by the staff of the Dominion Experimental Station at Saanichton.

STRAWBERRY improvement work has been carried on since 1712 when the French traveller, Frezier, took plants of Fragaria Chilensis, a Pacific Coast strawberry species, back home with him. Just what crosses were made by Monsieur Frezier between different species we do not know. Thomas Andrew Knight and later Dale carried out crosses with three wild strawberry species: Chilensis, Virginiana and grandiflora and these crosses gave rise to our modern varieties. The strawberry is one of our most luscious fruits. Its large size is attributed to its chilean parent and its quality to Virginiana, native of Eastern America.

Improvement is looked for by carrying on continued crosses with parent varieties that possess desirable characteristics and choosing a cross number of seedlings from which selections are made. At the present time much thought is being given to the development of disease-resistant varieties as the strawberry is liable to such troubles as mildew, leaf-spot, rhizoctonia and virus. Much progress has been made in recent years. New growing sequences, the strong and healthy berries. Virus is for transmission by the good. A high-grade of resistance to root rot is now known by Vancouver and as Tenpole, Fairland, Siskiyou, Oregon and Marshall, and because of this these varieties are being used extensively as parents in developing new varieties.

SPACE SEEDS

In growing cauliflower, cabbage and Brussels sprouts for the winter months in the uppers and one spot, transplanting which is used to obviate the trouble of having thickly. It is far easier and it will produce better results to spend a little more time in spacing the seeds out so that they are approximately a quarter of an inch apart. This is naturally scatter the seed on the soil. What happens as a result of thick sowing is that the plants tend to become crowded or spindly if not thinned out. Thinning out will not only take more time than the extra time required in more careful sowing, but there is also the danger of damaging the remaining seedlings if the operation is not carried out under ideal conditions. A further objection to thinning is that it disturbs the soil and makes it a more attractive place for the fly of the cabbage root maggot to lay its eggs, and easier for the maggot itself to penetrate the soil and attack the base of the stem and the roots.

TULIP PLANTING

Now when the flowering season is in full swing is the best time for making over the various bulb plots in order to make your choice of varieties for planting this fall. However, in the event you haven't planned a suitable location, the following list which represents the cleanest in the seven plots this year may be your choice. Vancouver, a white easter. Vancouver were chosen on a basis of vigor and purity of flowering and general appeal for garden display.

Aladdin, Velvet, Vestavia, Bird Princess, Cardinal, Royal or Rose, Copland, Cleveland, Cardinal, Crater, Lancaster, Lemington, Elizabeth Ivory, Fairhaven, Fairmont, Statue, Greenfellow, Giant Heralds, Her Grace, Incomparable, Jane Alfred Rockefeller, Lady Chamberlain, Margaret Lawson, Mrs. Joan Schoppe, Mt. Threats to the Health of Roses

DESPITE the labor-saving devices you may feel to your sorrow that the carpenter bee has been at work among your roses.

You will know the carpenter bee has been busy when you see a small hole neatly bored in the end of a cut rose cane as shown in the accompanying photograph.

The carpenter bee makes long tunnels in the pith of rose canes and then deposits eggs in them. The canes thus weakened are liable to break off or the bee has damaged down to the roots. Cut the rose back. Otherwise the destruction of the pith inside the rose canes will cause the bush to die.

Prune infected rose canes down to the fresh pith below the affected part. Apply grafting wax to the fresh cut end of the cane to keep the carpenter bee from drilling new holes. Fill all the rose canes that have bored in, as they contain the eggs of the carpenter bee.

Cane blight fungus is essential if you hope to get vigorous roots. As soon as rose bushes are fully leafed out begin a regular dusting schedule to combat disease, especially that known as black spot.

Black spot cannot be cured but it can be prevented by spraying or dusting with one of the new disease-killing sprays or dusts every 10 days until fall. Be sure to cover the underside of the leaves with the compound.

The first visible symptom of black spot look like little spots on the leaves as illustrated. As these spots enlarge and multiply the leaves turn yellow and drop off.

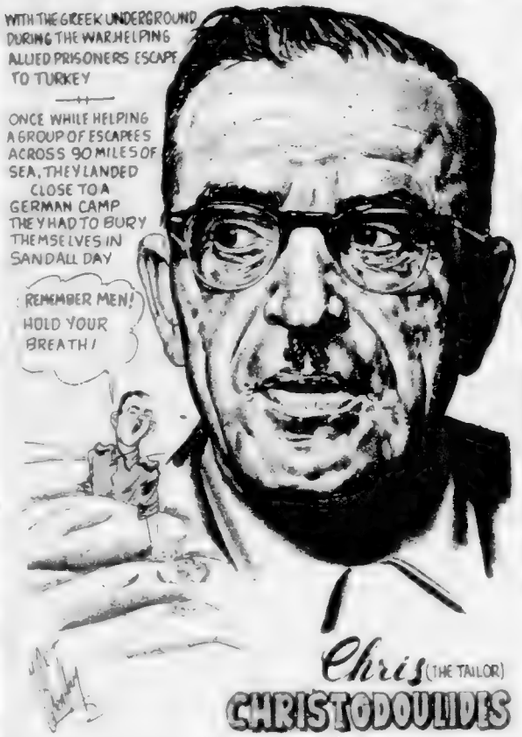
Christodoulides: Served the Silent Way

NOT everyone who asks Chris the tailor to patch a coat knows that the quiet-voiced tradesman with the small moustache is a former hero of the Greek underground.

The framed document in the window of his tiny shop on Johnson Street is a tribute from Field Marshall Viscount Alexander recognizing his services in helping hundreds of Allied soldiers, sailors and airmen escape to Turkish territory.

Chris has one of those surnames which make a bit of a mouthful for people unacquainted with the Greek language. He's Christodoulides. His brother George, a Victoria restaurateur who came to Canada 23 years ago, has simplified his name to Doulis to save trouble.

Both were born at a place called Eskisehir in Turkey. Their father was a wheat merchant. Greece wrested their birthplace from Turkey, then Turkey won it back. At that time all the Greek population left, including George and Chris.



IN SALONIKA

Chris was working as a tailor in Salonika when the German armies swept through Greece [illegible] World War. He fled south, returned and worked with the Red Cross for a time, then linked up with the Greek underground.

In the earlier years there was a neat, though hazardous, way of getting Allied men out to Turkey which was neutral but favorably inclined to wind the Allies. Many members of the Greek forces were of Turkish origin and when the Greek armies disintegrated Turkish nationals were repatriated. Allied servicemen were spirited into Turkey under cover of Turkish passports.

Once they were in Turkey their authorities turned them over to the British consul who arranged their transportation to Egypt.

BRUTAL BULGARS

Chris had a fluent knowledge of the Turkish language which qualified him as a guide. The guides worked in pairs. Some were caught and shot. Even when their papers seemed to be in order they were subjected to insults and beatings by Bulgarian soldiers who, he says, were infinitely more brutal than the Germans.

In time the overland route became impossible. There was another way: Island-hopping across 90 miles of sea on the craggy peninsula of Mount Athos was a nest of ancient Greek Orthodox monasteries with a long tradition of housing and helping wayfarers in distress. Their aid was enlisted.

Fleeing Allied servicemen could breathe easier for a time when they reached the monasteries, but after they had rested there was still the perilous sea passage to negotiate in crude boats sailing by night, hiding up islands by day.

WORKED AS COOK

Chris worked officially as a cook at one of the monasteries, but his real job was to guide the fugitives across the water. It was a nerve-wracking job. Failure to gain the safety of an island by daybreak might mean a machine-gun attack by the air patrol.

Sometimes the fugitives disguised themselves as Palestinian and trained fishing gear. In the meantime [illegible] the gear of the [illegible] to do this, but some [illegible] Greek services as shepherds.

First Presidential Boom Caught Eisenhower Without Answer

1. He lacks concrete political experience.

2. His views on most controversial issues, [illegible] foreign policy, are largely unknown.

3. He has never voted so far as anybody knows.

4. Eisenhower has often been called a "[illegible] soldier," but a more apt description might be "[illegible]."

5. Many liberal Republicans and [illegible] Democrats do not like the idea of people whose power would be [illegible] if Eisenhower becomes president.

6. The actual campaign would present problems of [illegible] difficulty. How, for instance, could Eisenhower make an effective opposition on foreign policy, which is certain to be a major issue, since he has been a major executant of Truman's foreign policy?

7. His detractors say that he is too [illegible] distributed, too "easy-going," and too much indicated to be all things to all people.

8. Eisenhower lacks the intellectual quality necessary to a truly [illegible] President.

9. If he wins and loses, he will have given up SHAPE for nothing, and he could not return to it except with [illegible] diminished prestige.

BOOKS!

In June a hundred years ago a girl was born in London who was to become the favorite novelist of an aristocratic England which was led by Sir Joshua Reynolds, Horace Walpole and Dr. Johnson.

But shy, reserved Francis Burney did not realize she was bringing about a literary revolution when she published her first novel "Evelina, a Young Lady's Entrance Into the World."

For the first time the daily life, the child-like anxieties, the hopes and deceits of the adolescent were the subject of a book whose naturalness and wealth of observation surprised the severest of critics.

AS IT APPEARS

"I have not pretended to show the world what it actually is," wrote Fanny Burney. "But what it appears to be to a girl of 17."

Her book prepared the road for Jane Austen and the innumerable women writers who followed her.

But the books she published later were, unfortunately, more and more "polished" and edifying.

It was not to be expected that her talent would outlive the brilliant but moribund society that inspired it. When she died, at the age of 89, she had buried Chevalier d'Arblay, her husband, her only son—and practically all of her readers.

* * *

BITTER BIERCE

About 10 years before Fanny Burney was born, Ambrose Gwinett Bierce was born into a pioneer Ohio family and grew up to be one of the most formidable writers and journalists in the United States.

His first attacks were made in San Francisco.

Later he published a collection of his work in England the ferocious humor of which attracted much attention but little affection and earned him the nickname "Bitter Bierce."

Returning to California he became "literary dictator of the Pacific Coast" and wrote fantastic or cruel stories of a remarkable quality.

These works had little success, however, and it may well be said that he achieved the wish of one of his characters who "sought obscurity in the writing and publishing of books."

STILL CONSULTED

But if the general public ignored his works, writers have not ceased to consult them. The heir to Edgar Allan Poe, Bierce seems to have inspired not only Stephen Crane and O. Henry, but also a number of contemporary American novelists.

In despair and with no other wish than to find "the good kind darkness," Ambrose Bierce went to Mexico in 1913 at the age of 72. Joined the revolution of Pancho Villa as a guerilla fighter and disappeared without trace.

According to one widely circulated report, he was shot while deserting to the government side.

But ever since that report in 1916—a report that has never been officially proven—there have been reports of his re-appearance at one place and another all over the continent.

And about a dozen short stories have been written on the basis that an aged Ambrose Bierce turned up to make life miserable for some of his opponents.

Pageant of Pioneer Times Creates Conflict in Settler

"A Candle for a Star," by Zoe Land Schiller (Macmillan).

Pioneer families will have little love for this snappy story that ballyhoos the hackneyed ideals of their forebearers.

Living in a progressive little town in the Pacific Northwest, a rich, crusty old settler, Duncan McGregor, plans to build a fine new theatre for his town.

With the help of imported Eastern theatrical talent a glory shouting, flag waving pageant of the struggles of the pioneers is written and staged for the opening night.

Outwardly, Duncan, whose life as one of the original settlers of the area is to be used as the plot, is pleased with the idea, but deep in his heart he knows it to be so much hogwash.

His true memories of the life he and his companions led in the "new country" as young men is brought to the surface in a dinner meeting with two of his old cronies.

"I can tell you the colorful history of the great northwest in two words," one of his old friends shouts in scorn, "conquest and exploitation. Going to make a pageant of that are you? Why they'll string you up, you old horse thief."

With this thought, and several others a little more earthy, in the back of his mind, Duncan goes ahead with his pageant.

But his struggle to present a good show is added to by the petty jealousies of the cast and prodigious a never-ending battle with his contractor to have the theatre opened on time.

The rest of the story is spiced up with the mental wanderings of the old man into his youth and his desire to see his life portrayed on story form.

After 275 pages of nerve-wrangling frustration the big night comes off without a hitch and the town is more than satisfied but Duncan is amazed.

"I can't account for it. I thought they would tar and feather me," he says. M.G.

Author Warns Canadians To Protect Vital Resources

"Conservation in Canada," by Dr O. M. McConkey (Dent).

A horrifying picture of what is happening to natural resources in many parts of Canada takes up the major part of Dr. McConkey's book.

The author, professor of field husbandry at Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, documents his case thoroughly, showing what is happening in Canada, what the same practices did in China, and what the right methods are doing in more enlightened European countries, notably Sweden and Germany.

Except for a neat criss-crossed stack of logs, the Swedish scene is tidy as a park. Compare that with parts of Saanich Inlet for a small example.

Dr. McConkey's theme, stated again and again, is the balance of nature. When that goes, he declares everything else goes whether fast or slow. First the trees, then the soil, then the water, then the people.

Not that he shrieks with alarm at the thought of an axe. He's satisfied to see some trees cut, but stripping the forested hillsides he sees as the first big step to disaster.

"One of the most urgent problems facing Canada today," he says in a passage italicized for emphasis, "is to establish a long term plan of forest conservation similar in principle to the forest management of Sweden and Germany." J.T.J.

Mother, 60, Helps Child To Be Happy

"The Donkey Shoe," by G. B. Stern (Collins).

The sad story of a poor little rich girl, only child of a widowed actress, is unfolded here with all psychological leaps and twists explored for the benefit of those who prefer their heroines neurotic.

The mother, supposedly intelligent, famous and good, waits until she is crowding 60 before determining to "do something" about her problem child, at which magnanimous moment the myriad causes of her daughter's maladjustment all become beautifully clear to her.

EVER AFTER

And so at the book's conclusion the resolute mother and her now radiantly happy daughter are reunited in spirit and seem destined to live happy ever after.

Miss Stern has committed a waste of talent by writing a psychological novel which is psychologically unsound, although "The Donkey Shoe" is readable enough.

A previous novel by the same author was "Ten Days of Christmas." M.D.G.

Let's Abolish Income Tax

"Man to Man," by Bernard N. Ward (Caxton).

Income taxes, the author declares, are excessive, unequal and far too costly to collect. He declares that they are having the effect in the United States of stifling business and the spirit that brought the continent to its present productive and economic levels.

He also describes many United States income tax collection scandals, frauds and evasions.

In place of income tax the author would establish a manufacturer's sales tax. He uses 10 per cent as an example. Alas, Canada already has a 10 per cent manufacturer's tax and income tax.

Edwardian Fashions Become Rage in London

BY DIANA STRODE

North American Newspaper Alliance

LONDON.—New York café society is seeing some of the effects of the vogue for Edwardian fashions which is becoming pronounced in London. Many American women have returned from trips to London with some of the Edwardian styled clothes they bought over there.

These include jacket cuffs that are turned back like the cuffs on trousers, fancy fancy waistcoats, "drainpipe" trousers, curly brimmed derby hats. On top of this there is a distinct trend toward wearing the hair much longer, and for the return of grandfather's beloved fob watch.

Women have been trying to get men to dress more gaily for years. If this trend continues, it looks as if the women may have gotten more than they bargained for. London, of course, is the male fashion capital of the world, so the new trend must be taken very seriously.

MORE DARING

One well-known designer of men's clothes in London, Michael Whittacker, already is looking back beyond the Edwardian era for even more daring and adventurous ideas in men's clothes. "Now that we have an Elizabeth on the throne again," he says, "we should have an Elizabethan flavor in our clothes."

One suit shown by Whittacker consists of "trousers" which look like plus fours reaching to just above the calves and a "jacket" which really is a doublet or waistcoat made of the same material back and front. It is made with or without sleeves, but with a kind of epaulet to broaden the shoulders without padding. The outfit is said to be inexpensive, and comes in barathea and corduroy velvet. It can be worn either for town or country and is said to be very comfortable. It will demand good calves and a taste for brightly coloured stock ties.

KNIT HIS OWN

Here is another significant piece of news: if how men are crashing into the women's sphere. Andrew Christie, a Highlander from Ballater in Scotland, has just been to London to receive a prize of £150 won in a national knitting competition. Men, it seems, are pretty good knitters if they chose to be, and no longer consider it too feminine an occupation. Kenneth Darby, the mate of the tug Turmoil, who joined Capt. Kurt Carlsen on the Flying Enterprise is a knitter.

When a firm of woolen manufacturers in Britain announced that its knitting competition would contain a special class for men it was surprised and pleased with the number of entries, which ran into hundreds. The entries revealed one thing clearly: that men who knit, have, on the whole, a much higher standard than women, as they pay due regard to the important matter of tension and have a keener eye for detail.

Christie won first prize for a sophisticated pair of stockings knitted in the Christie family tartan which contains red, blue, green and yellow. The reason he chose stockings for his entry was unusual.

Two years ago he wanted to take up Highland dancing, which is very popular on Deeside where he lives, but though he could get dancing shoes, kilt, sporran, velvet jacket, tartan plaid and bonnet easily enough there were no tartan stockings available as they were all exports. There was nothing for it but to sit down and knit his own.

GLOWING FABRIC

A new fabric for curtains which when illuminated by ultra-violet rays has a brilliant glowing pattern has been woven by a firm in Strathclyde in the English Midlands. The designs are simple work, the effects itself being based on variations of the simple and closed theme. Fabrics made of Japanese silk yachts are of the raised pattern or three-dimensional type.

Keeping White Accents Clean

By BETH BLAIR

White as a fashion accent creates over from spring into summer but its stark clean look is not easily kept. For the utmost flattery that comes from wearing white take extra precautions to keep it looking of the quality that attracts you to the first place.

When you buy unusual white accessories and matching gloves, decide how you want them worn: the one-day between wearings. Deep soil and accumulated perspiration are more difficult to remove than the one-day streak. Here are a few tricks that make neckwear easy to care for:

Don't soak more than a few minutes in lukewarm suds. Long soaking loosens the dirt to set the band on the fabric. Always wash with nylon apart from everything else. It can pick up dye from the pocket of passers and then look grey.

Discover how useful a soft, old brush dipped in rich soapsuds can be in keeping neckwear white as snow. Brushing fabrics when wet snapped is a lot better for them than rubbing the wear between your knuckles.

Rinse thoroughly, roll in a towel to blot, and unroll at once if it needs pressing, so this white piece is still damp and on the wrong side. Watch iron setting if you're pressing synthetics such as rayon, dacron, nylon. They take very low heat.

There's been an immense increase in non-ironing fabrics. Sheer nylon tricot blouses can revel in big puff sleeves because there's no pressing problem after laundering. A flocked nylon tricot in collars, cuffs, and dickeys gives the effect of having pleats—and keeps this effect permanently through every washing. Nylon batiste with nylon lace is another quick-change non-ironing artist.

Cotton Is Top Treatment For Suits and Coats

BY ANNE YATES CLARKE

AMID all the excitement over new "fibres, new fabrics, cotton goes serenely on more popular than ever. True, it has emerged with new processes and finishes that give it extra qualities, make it more desirable for all types of clothes than it has ever been. Some improvements are for practicality, some add to its beauty. And so in both new and old versions, it bows to no fibre or fabric.

For summer suits and coats many of the better designers are using cottons. Pique is one of the old favorites that appear — nubby weaves with a shantung look are some of the newer types. Between these extremes are a range of interesting and smart fabrics that fulfill every requirement of good looks and utility. Even denim and seersucker, always considered week-a-day weaves, are glamorized this season in ways that make them worthy of the most formal occasion.

You'll find cotton coatings and suitings take to tailoring beautifully. Cotton tweeds and suitings of similar weight make town and travel clothes that are superlative. Select dark or medium colors and you'll find them wrinkle, tireless and always cool and smart for the best are crease-resistant and some times have other new finishes to make them extra comfortable.

Sheerer fabrics that are nevertheless opaque are also excellent for town and travel. Casual cottons are used for coats, suits and dresses than can double for spectator sports, for general at-home wear and for vacations. Frankly sheer cottons have their place in both the town and the dress-up wardrobe, depending on their color and how they are made. It's just a matter of treatment, for a beautifully made cotton is as formal as a silk, as practical as any of the other textiles that are claiming attention this season.

Unusual Ways To Serve Stew

If you have trouble getting the family to eat what you consider a delicious meat stew, try dressing it up in a different way. Serve it with a border of fluffy rice with dumplings or as a filling for hot biscuits in a meat shortcake.

You might like to try serving the stew in scalloped with macaroni or spaghetti or as a meat pie under a lid of biscuits or pastry. A topping of light fluffy whipped mashed potatoes that are browned in the oven provides an appetizing combination too.

NO. 145—NINETY-FOURTH YEAR | VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, SUNDAY, JUNE 1, 1952 | SECOND NEWS SECTION

Fire Hall Closed; Men Gone

Victoria's No. 2 fire hall, Yates Street, was closed at midnight.

The four-man crew was reassigned, and the fire truck was driven to James Bay hall to replace the equipment there.

Closure of the hall came in midst of controversy between the firemen and city council.

The hall was closed by a city council resolution after the fire wardens' committee chairman, Ald. Waldo Skillings, recommended closure of the hall and dismissal of 10 men for economy.

The controversy centres around a 17-per-cent wage boost awarded firemen by a conciliation board. The city subsequently suggested firemen accept an 11-per-cent wage increase granted inside and outside workers. Firemen refused to accept the lower rate, declaring the board recommendation should be accepted by the city and pointing out the award easily could have gone against the men.

David Pye, spokesman for the firemen's union, said there was no comment to make. There was no indication the union would seek a court injunction to stop permanent closure of the hall, he said.

Fire Chief Frank Briers indicated reorganization of the personnel at remaining halls would take place as a result of the closure.

Firemen reported that the 10 men laid off at midnight were not all from the Yates Street hall but were junior men from all stations.

A report on the firemen's petition of 10,000 signatures presented to council Friday may be given the fire warden's committee of the council tomorrow afternoon. The petition is being checked by city solicitor Arthur Patton.

Maruffa First To Finish

Maruffa, John Graham's big yawl from Seattle, was first over the line in the Swiftsure Race, coming home with better than a half-hour lead over the second boat, Franklin Eddy's yawl Dorade. Both were beaten on corrected time by two smaller boats. Maruffa, 67 feet, was second largest yacht in the race, and rated fourth fastest. She also finished first in the 1949 race.

B.C. Hospital Budgets Boosted $4,979,000

British Columbia hospitals will spend $4,979,000 more in 1952 than they did in 1951, it was reported yesterday by the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service.

Approved budgets for all hospitals total $30,879,000 for 1952 compared with $25,900,000 last year. The 1952 budget is 49.94 per cent greater than in 1949 when hospital insurance came into effect.

Salaries and wages of hospital workers form the biggest item in all budgets and most other hospital costs showed increases over 1951.

In 1948 before the hospital service was established by the government hospital budgets totaled $16,720,000.

Clinic Gets Detection Aid

New weapon in fight against cancer is now available to Victoria doctors with gift of Broyles Bronchoscope to Victoria Cancer Clinic by Women's Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital. The instrument being used on patient by nose and throat staff at the clinic has special prisms and lenses to permit examination of otherwise inaccessible areas of vocal cords and lungs. It represents a refinement in the diagnosis of cancer of the lungs and aids in early discovery of cancer, thus stepping up chances of cure. The bronchoscope will also be used by general hospital doctors for removal of foreign matter from the lungs.

Boer War Veterans Listen to Memories

Roll call sounded the names of regiments that have disappeared into history—Imperial Yeomanry, Third Hussars, Twelfth Lancers, Prince of Wales Dragoon Guards.

More than 200 veterans of the "last of the gentlemen's wars," the South African campaign, listened last night to memories of half a century ago.

The only woman who attended as a veteran of the Boer War had seen and spoken with Florence Nightingale.

Mrs. R. A. Maclennan was a nursing sister in the African war, and on graduation from St. Thomas Hospital, London, saw Florence Nightingale, who visited the hospital and spoke to the graduating nurses.

At last night's celebration the youngest veteran was 68-year-old George Reid, who served as a trooper in the Boer War, as a sergeant in the First World War and as a captain in the Second World War.

He assisted the oldest veteran, 91-year-old Major A. E. Christie, D.S.O., in cutting a huge cake with a cavalry sabre.

Some of the veterans present fought in battles before the Boer War in Egypt at Khartoum and the Sudan and with the French Foreign Legion.

The white-haired old soldiers drank a toast to Queen Victoria with a fond remembrance of the golden era when men rode off to war in gold braid and scarlet uniforms.

But men died in those wars, too, and roll call brought to their minds the faces of comrades who died in Africa and the many old soldiers who had since faded away.

Many of the Canadian contingent, 20 of whom live in Victoria, were present at last night's celebration.

Many Cars Robbed At Lake

R.C.M.P. officials have issued a warning to motorists staying for any length of time at Thetis Lake. Leave valuables at home.

Police said numerous complaints have been received from owners of robbed automobiles within the past week and fear that an annual summer wave of car breakins is beginning.

They said none of the thefts have amounted to much, but pointed out that locking a car is no protection.

Many of the thefts have been from locked cars, they said. "Thieves simply smashed windows."

Auction Viewers Gasp at Stately Ceilings, Spectacular Plumbing

Glimpse of Grand Old Rithet Home Calls Up Elegant, Gracious Days

By JIM NESBITT

Thousands of people in recent days glimpsed the elegance and grandeur of the Queen Victoria's age when they descended upon Hollybank, stately 77-year-old home of Mrs. R. P. Rithet who died in April in her 100th year.

The mansion itself created as much interest as the furniture, which was sold at auction. For two days people poked through the house, marveling at the elaborate ceiling in the drawing room, roaming through room after room, astonished at the huge kitchen, with tile floor and enormous black range, in which great roast beef dinners were prepared.

The toilet brought gasps of amazement. Many people had never seen such an affair. It's the type with the water box at the top, a pull-the-chain toilet, probably the last in Victoria. It was installed in the 90's. When Hollybank was built in 1875 the plumbing was outdoors—a little house up a garden path.

The drawing room, if only it could be moved, would be a museum piece. It's a huge room with a 20-foot ceiling, two large bay windows, two fireplaces of white marble, two chandeliers with crystals, originally gas fitted with electric lights about 1900. Mr. and Mrs. Rithet evidently thought electricity was a new-fangled notion so they refused to discard the gas jets and they remain to this day.

Antique and second hand dealers did most of the buying. Prices were surprisingly good, the whole sale bringing in more than $4,000. Largest private buyer was Mrs. Clarence Wallace, wife of the lieutenant-governor. She purchased a lovely old wall mirror in gilt frame with candelabra and brica-brac shelves for $195; a pair of gilt-topped brackets for $65 ea.; a drawing room set of five chairs and settee for $145. These fine items, a rich with the glamorous past of Victoria are going to Devonia, the Wallace home in Vancouver.

A huge heavy mirror in a carved gilt frame went for $70, a pier mirror for $75, a big mirror in a carved walnut frame for $12. The elaborate bedroom suite of bird's-eye maple sold for $45. The bed is so big that few people have room for it nowadays. The two chandeliers in the drawing room sold for $130, top price of the auction for one parcel. A pair of bronze plaques brought $55, a set of antique fire irons $15, a pair of marble-topped washstands $30, a marble-topped bureau $5.

There were two outstanding collector's items: a tiny black silk parasol which Mrs. Rithet used as she drove in her carriage and pair, which went for $3.50, and a chamber pot, $10. The last item caused much comment: a huge affair, painted with pink roses and trailing greenery, complete with cover on which also was the rose and greenery motif. They just don't make that kind any more.

Mrs. Rithet's Goldenrod coat of rich Angola wool, with coat and cuffs of mink, in which she was one of the fashionable figures of Victoria society, sold for $45.

Tribute of Hollybank, a mansion not known. The house is believed unsuitable for conversion into an apartment and will probably be torn down, the valuable property sold. There are seven marble fireplaces in the house, [illegible] and [illegible] will be sold, too. The original beams and [illegible] are still in good shape, even to the stairs for the [illegible].

As we poked through this [illegible] we could sense the freshness and [illegible] that once permeated it [illegible] the days when Mr. and Mrs. Rithet were living, when their [illegible] and their daughter were at home, and there were dinner parties and dances and teas and croquet parties in the splendid gardens, and young people strolled out on horseback for a canter through the park and along the waterfront. And people sighed and were just a bit sad as they felt its graciousness, and looked back into an age of spaciousness and dignified living, and they reflected that if homes could be larger today, perhaps more people would stay home.

Drawing room at Hollybank, once scene of fashionable tea parties and dances, was photographed for B.C. archivist Willard Ireland as part of the historical record of the province.

Curtains and drapes over bay windows are of rich Brussels lace and red velvet, with tassels. Fifty years from now, mansions like Hollybank will have passed out of memory.—(B.C. Archives photo.)

Right-of-Way For Cows Causes Crash

The problem was solved in favor of the cows, and R. W. Sinclair, district game warden, and E. C. Pollock, 1235 Montrose, Victoria, were left with the bill, when their cars collided on the Shawnigan Lake Road.

According to the R.C.M.P., both motorists swerved to avoid the straying herd when the collision occurred.

Victim Winning Injury Battle

A Patricia Bay airman was reported last night winning his fight against serious injuries suffered more than a week ago, and resulting in a complete coma for at least six days.

L/A/C Fred Sommerville, about 19, was involved in a collision with an automobile near midnight May 23 in Sidney, while riding his bicycle.

His doctor last night said he suffered a fractured skull, lacerated brain and multiple injuries.

He said Sommerville was slowly regaining consciousness in Rest Haven Hospital, and is able to speak.

Sommerville's doctor said he has been unable to X-ray to determine full extent of injuries.

Cowichan Writer Describes Play Written for Festival

"The Benign Influence" the play commended at the Drama Festival by the adjudicator was written so that the Cowichan Little Theatre Guild could stand

Jill Porter, the author, is the wife of Mr. E. P. Porter, both of whom are well known in Victoria. They now reside at Maple Bay.

Here is the way Mrs. Porter explains the inspiration for her play.

"The idea persists that everything coming from another planet must of necessity be malevolent. Why shouldn't it be benign?"

The story revolves around the dream of a farmer who sees his family as he wishes they would be and on waking finds they have miraculously changed to his ideal through the influence of an unearthly presence.

Jill Porter, who is a member of the Cowichan Little Theatre Guild and the Maple Bay Play Reading Group, is a woman one could rely upon to be original and creative at a moment's notice. Not a newcomer to the writing world Mrs. Porter worked on The Cowichan Leader and for several years was correspondent of yacht club news for "Boating" for the west coast of Canada, writing stories of regattas and major yachting events. After her "History of the Maple Bay Yacht Club" published in [illegible] she was asked to write similar histories of the clubs in Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo.

Her knowledge of yachting came quite naturally, her father being the late Captain [illegible] Williams, one of the first members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, who owned the Mermaid, a 50-foot yacht, well known in [illegible] Bay.

Mrs. Porter states she's spent [illegible] of her life [illegible] Victoria. Her husband is [illegible] of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club from Maple Bay to Victoria and President of the Maple Bay Club. The family, who currently include [illegible] Jill, Jim, Lesley, Gordon, Steve and [illegible] spend their [illegible] at their home on Maple Bay [illegible] sailing, [illegible] and [illegible] up the coast to Alaska

Christopher, members of the board; Mrs. Wilfred Jones, chairman of the convention; Mrs. E. C. Sommer, assistant chairman, and Mrs. V. B. Taylor, secretary-treasurer.

During the meeting a charter was presented to the newly formed A. J. chapter and its eighteen members elected Mrs. W. J. Hooper as their first president. Reports were heard on Dr. and Mrs. T. W. A. Gray's three daughters, and Miss Joanna Moir, who are attending college, the international project of P.E.O. Dr. Ruth White, daughter of Mrs. G. B. White, past provincial president of P.E.O., who was enabled to attend the University of Paris through the P.E.O. educational fund, spoke to the assembly. Miss [illegible] Fines she received a French government scholarship of $75.

The founding of the P.E.O. educational loan fund in 1907 was the subject of the skit for which authentic costumes were borrowed from the provincial archives. Those taking part were Mrs. J. F. K. English, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. E. C. Sommer, Mrs. W. Newton, Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. H. E. Farquhar, Mrs. H. M. Morrison and Mrs. W. H. Hockman, all members of Chapter N.

Our P.E.O. Projects was the address given by Mrs. Longmire followed by a coffee party held at the home of Mrs. T. H. Johns, Somass Drive, to honor the two supreme chapter officers and members of the provincial board. Hostesses were the executive of the president's council, Mrs. Walter Lang, Jr., Mrs. Wilfred Jones, Mrs. E. H. McDougal and Mrs. Betty Kent, assisted by Mrs. A. J. [illegible], transportation chairman.

Mrs. Johns assisted by Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Laing received the guests.

An informal afternoon for delegates and members was held in the Flamingo Room of the Crystal Garden on Saturday and a banquet in the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel in the evening. Those seated at the main table at the latter were Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Scarlett, Mrs. C. B. Tomlinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible], Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Hazel Hodson, Mrs. H. Wagner, Mrs. A. B. Christopher, the Rev. and Mrs. C. B. McCall, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Jones. Here's what can do was the topic chosen by Mrs. Tomlinson, the guest speaker.

Piano selections by Mr. Maxwell Hamilton and a musical program were followed by an exhibition of square dancing.

Those concerning the convention were Mrs. J. F. K. English, flowers and [illegible]; Mrs. W. A. Adam, [illegible]; Mrs. Arnold Wee, flowers and decorations; Mrs. John Gange, [illegible]; Mrs. A. J. Cowie, transportation; Mrs. R. G. McKee, badges and markers, and Mrs. W. H. Hockman, [illegible].

Two Victoria Reserve Units at Abbotsford For Exercise in Difficult Field Operations

MILITARY ACTIVITIES

BY ROY PARRETT

Two reserve army units from Victoria are encamped at Abbotsford today. The 12th Field Ambulance and the 16th Field Sanitary Section left Friday night for a weekend training on the Mainland.

The local units have teamed up with the 12th Field Ambulance of Vancouver to carry out exercises in casualty evacuation river crossings and field hospital work. Training in vehicle maintenance and recovery will also be on the agenda.

Major [illegible] will be in charge of operations for the local units, assisted by Capt. D. A. Honey, Lieut. J. L. Newbigging and Officer Cadet J. F. Rowe. Lieut. H. A. Davie of the Canadian Scottish regiment, Mission, is attached for training as an observer.

* * *

Anti-aircraft gunners from Vancouver and Victoria are combining training practice from Albert Head today. The 20th Heavy A.A. Regt. will be firing its 17 pounds at targets towed by RCAF planes. The 23rd H.A.A. Regiment and 7 A.A.O.R. from Vancouver were airlifted to Victoria morning. Work got in the week-end shoot.

Firing practice for the crews currently working under the supervision of Major George [illegible] Regiment for the [illegible] Regiment.

Extra Sleep Welcome To Busy John Gray

—CARRIERS' CORNER—

John Gray 14-year-old businessman who lives at 201 Regina Avenue, is a man who likes his sleep. After he gets up each morning he goes back to bed for two hours.

But he earns that two hours in bed, because he climbs out of the sheets at 10 minutes to four every morning to deliver The Daily Colonist.

This week's Carrier of the Week has been delivering The Colonist for just a year. He started on June 1 1951.

After receiving his papers, John folds them and sets out by bike to deliver to 110 readers in the Burnside Tillicum area.

UP FOR CLASSES

He finishes deliveries by 6 and returns to bed for two hours before getting ready to attend classes at Tillicum School.

On week ends when 110 Daily Colonists weigh many extra pounds John enlists one of his two brothers to help him. So far he has not persuaded his three sisters to try a paper route.

* * *

The Colonist Carriers' Softball League opened Saturday and six teams will be in action each Saturday during June, July and August. Following is the rest of the league schedule.

June 7—Station 2 vs Station 7 Victoria West (lower); Station 4 vs. Station 7, Beacon Hill Park (Heywood Avenue); Station 6 vs. Station 3 Hollywood Park.

June 28—Station 6 vs Station 4 at Hollywood Park; Station 5 vs Station 7 at Beacon Hill Park (Heywood).

July 12—Station 3 vs Station 2 at S. J. Willis School; Station 7 vs Station 4 at Beacon Hill Park (Heywood); Station 7 vs Station 6 at Windsor Park.

July 19—Station 5 vs Station 2 at Beacon Hill Park (Heywood); Station 7 vs Station 1 at Windsor Park; Station 6 vs Station 1 at S. J. Willis School.

July 26—Station 7 vs Station 2 at Windsor Park; Station 3 vs Station 4 at S. J. Willis School; Station 5 vs Station 6 at Beacon Hill Park (Heywood).

August 2—Station 4 vs Station 2 at S. J. Willis School; Station 5 vs Station 1 at Beacon Hill Park (Heywood).

Veterans of 15th Artillery Brigade Enjoy Reunion

The unit that got the biggest send-off in Victoria's history—the 15th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery—celebrated the 36th anniversary of leaving the city last night at Bay Street Armory.

It was a bang-up affair, just as artillerymen like, with 80 veterans attending from all over the Island area and from Salt Spring Island and Vancouver.

An issue of rum started the celebration, after an inspection by G. L. Foulkes, former orderly sergeant of the unit.

The menu consisted of Paris Cocktail; Soup a la Dishwater; Salt Petre; San-En-Gobelle Tom Turkey with dressing; Camoral Sauce; New Mons Pomme de Terre; Burlon Wood Green Peas; Lievin Coconut Cream Pie with Lens Whipped Cream; London Hot Rolls and Godalming Tea and Petawawa Coffee.

EXPLORER'S TRIBUTE

The Thompson River in British Columbia was discovered by Simon Fraser who named it after his fellow - explorer, David Thompson.

Toast to "The Brigade" was given by Gordon Cameron, who said: "The best way to bring back to your minds what we went through in 1916 and 1918 is to read parts of my letters home."

His letters sketched the history of the unit from its start in Victoria, through training camps at Petawawa and in England to action in France.

Response to the toast was made by Dr William Newton, former gunner of the unit.

Mr Justice Locke, member of the Supreme Court of Canada, who served with the unit, sent his regrets at not being able to attend the celebration.

Dunnett Heads Royal Arcanum

G. Murray Dunnett has been installed as regent of the Majestic Council, No. 1513, Royal Arcanum, it was announced yesterday. He will be serving a second term.

The installation was conducted by Albert E. Kyle, Vancouver, grand regent of Washington Oregon and British Columbia, assisted by grand guide D. R. Park, Victoria.

Other officers elected were: Robert Patch, vice-regent; J. J. Rogers, orator; W. B. Cameron, sitting past regent; D. W. Spence, secretary; J. J. Stewart, collector; Glen Twamley, treasurer; Harold Brown, chaplain; Angus James, guide; John Irvine, warden; Clive Watson, sentry; Walter B. Revercomb, Harold Ferguson and L. Clarke, trustees.

List Favored Boundaries For New Island Ridings

BY TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, May 31.—Vancouver Island is definitely to be divided into four ridings in place of the existing three.

Under the present proposal of a House of Commons subcommittee the constituency of Victoria would include Victoria and Oak Bay municipalities, but Esquimalt would be included in the new riding which would extend from the south, north to the southern boundary of the provincial riding of Cowichan-Newcastle.

The riding of Nanaimo would be north from there to approximately the present boundaries of Comox-Alberni.

Of the other three new constituencies over which a bitter Commons battle is raging, one is to be in the heart of Vancouver, one in the immediate outlying area and the other in the interior, probably cutting Yale in half, running east and west just south of Kelowna, and including Revelstoke, which is now in Kamloops constituency.

There is a row on among B.C. Liberal members over composition of the two new Vancouver seats. E. Davie Fulton (PC Kamloops) protested that Vancouver should not have so many seats and more should go to rural areas.

Other House of Commons business includes a report of the Combines Investigation into the rubber industry. It is will be tabled on Monday afternoon.

The findings of the report are believed to apply to car accessories, tires, rubber for certain lines of industrial use, rubber cloth and footwear. The report runs to about 700 pages including a 16-page summary.

Two threats exist to the goal of ending the session by July 4.

One is the redistribution bill, which will increase B.C.'s representatives in the House of Commons from 18 to 22.

The other is the bill revising the Criminal Code. The bill is in the Senate and has not yet reached the Commons.

Bulk of Estate Goes to Charity

A $3,600 major portion of an estate left by Miss Clara E. Jones, well-known Metropolitan Church woman who died last March 16, will be shared by four charitable organizations in Victoria.

Miss Jones left an estate valued at approximately $5,000 with provision for gifts to her brothers and sisters and upkeep of her mother's grave.

The Community Chest receives $1,200 from the estate, Family and Children's Service, a Community Chest agency, $800; B.C. Protestant Orphanage, $800, and John Howard Society, $800.

WILLESDEN, England (CP)—Speaking of people who regard themselves as "superior beings" as soon as they are behind the wheel of a car, Rev. Gerald Ellison, bishop of Willesden, said: "Christians should know to allow oneself to be mastered by machines is a blasphemy and a sin."

Prohibition is a Dead Duck ...but

The liquor Plebiscite is not a "wet" or "dry" issue. Beer, spirits, and wine are available now. They are here to stay.

We agree with many who say that our present method of distributing liquor is not satisfactory.

But consider what would happen with a "yes" vote in your community. The next Government could license bars in your neighbourhood. Are you sure you want a bar in your neighbourhood? As a parent, do you want your children exposed to liquor right around the corner? As the plebiscite reads, the above could transpire if a "yes" majority is given.

As a property owner, do you want nearby bars when it is considered that land values depreciate in the neighbourhood of a bar?

In many communities in North America today, while they reject the theory of prohibition, the citizens wish that their bars were better regulated, better zoned—in fact, something they are not. But for them it is too late to do anything about it. They are saddled with an unfortunate system.

As it stands—now we don't know exactly "how", "where", and "who" will distribute liquor by the glass. The Alcohol Research Council suggests that a thorough study of the matter be undertaken before we go blindly into more liquor outlets at the caprice of the next Government. Governments don't always do things the way you expect or want. Vote "no" until you know what the score is.

B.C. is a good place to live and British Columbians deserve the best possible liquor laws. A "no" vote protects your interests.

VOTE "NO" UNTIL YOU KNOW

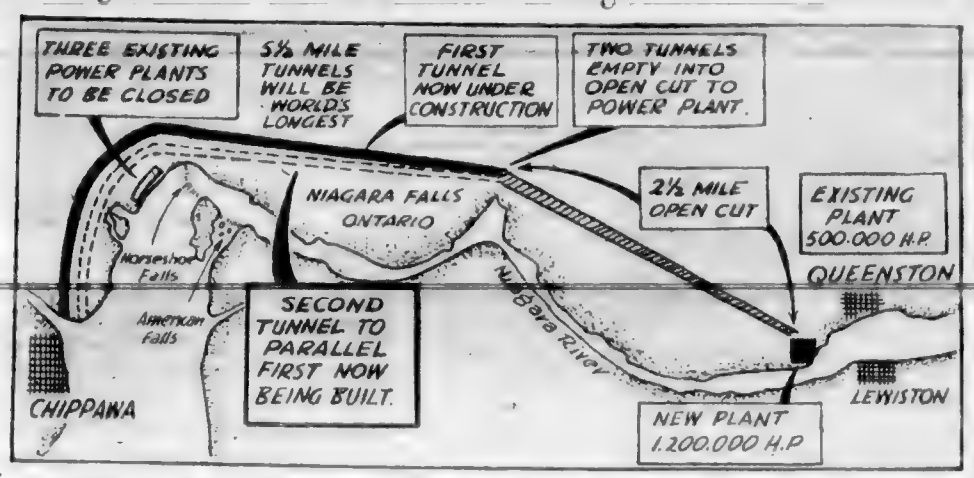
Niagara To Be World's Second Largest Power Producer



Construction of a second tunnel at Niagara to provide additional electric power for southern Ontario industries by 1956 has been announced by Ontario hydro chairman Robert Saunders. The new tunnel supplementing the one already under construction, will make the Niagara development the world's second largest, exceeded in horsepower only by the Grand Coulee project of the U.S.A. A total of 1,700,000 horsepower will be produced, over three times the present capacity of the development. (Central Press Canadian.)

Every year in October Fredericksburg, Va., goes to the dogs—when the historic old town holds its annual dog mart. On this date every dog has its day and Fredericksburg becomes a mixture of hounds and history, pooches and patriotic shrines. It all started back in 1680 when a truce was declared between the early settlers and Indians of eastern Virginia. It seems this cease-fire gave the Indians the opportunity to trade their furs, gold and handicraft for the white men's much-coveted hunting dogs. Thus the Fredericksburg dog mart was born out of mutual trade benefits and the desire of Indians and settlers to enjoy some old fashioned holiday fun. Although the events of the day have been altered since Indian times, the spirit of the dog mart remains unchanged. A traffic stopping parade of dogs opens the festivities followed by fox horn blowing, country fiddling, Indian dances, a dog show and an auction where enough dog to delight any small boy can be bought for as little as $1.

Staff of Life Means More To City Lions

Next time a Victoria Lions Club member goes to the corner store for a loaf of bread, he will have a greater appreciation for the ease with which the "staff of life" is obtained in this country.

At their meeting Friday the Lions saw a wonderful film entitled "Jungle Bread"—the colored picture story of how natives of the Dutch Guiana jungles make bread from a root which contains a deadly poison. It was shown by Harry Bird, local manager of a large Canadian baking firm which acquired exclusive rights to the film.

The meeting also included a display of handicraft units brought back by those who produced the picture from Dutch Guiana. More than 100,000 people have seen "Jungle Bread" to date.

VALUABLE EXPORT

The 1952 cocoa crop from the African Gold Coast and Nigeria was worth more than £70,000,000.

Oak Bay High Campaign Brings Rash of Posters

BY BRIAN SMITH
Oak Bay High School

Election posters have been foremost in the halls these days as the annual presidential campaign is in full swing.

The $64 question is: Are we going to have "Little for Leader," "Gelling, the Man With Experience" or are we going to "Drop Cox in the Box?" These slogans signify that either Monty Little, Bill Gelling or Don Cox will be next year's student council president. Students will be better equipped to make this grave decision when they hear the three candidates give short addresses to the assembly Monday morning.

Graduation—we're going into the final stretch, with only 5½ days left to wait. This year's graduation ceremonies start the afternoon of June 6, with prize-giving and awarding of certificates. The banquet and dance will be held that night at the Monterey and from then on—parties, parties, and more parties. This year's graduating class is fortunate that the following Monday is a holiday and there will be time for recuperation.

Oak Bay athletes finished the last and toughest lap of the busy track and field schedule in which they have engaged.

The fourth annual provincial meet, climaxed two previous weeks of competition in the Oak Bay High meet and the inter-high meet.

After placing second to Victoria High in the aggregate totals for the inter-high, Oak Bay entered an 11-man team in the provincial meet. Representing the school were Kay Burnett, discus; Irene Young, high jump, relay; Valerie Potter, hurdles; June Bell, relay; Elizabeth McCallum, relay; Marguerite Gardom, relay; Ken Barnes, discus, relay; Bob Cross, 440 yards, hurdles, relay; Gerry Rovers, 100 yards, broad jump, hop-step-and-jump, relay; Brian Smith, relay; Frank Lewis, high jump.

Softball, the final athletic endeavor of the year, continues to prove popular. The undefeated juniors lead their league, while the seniors are in a second-place tie.

D.V.A. Names S. J. Mayzes As Advocate

S. H. Okell, assistant district administrator, department of veterans' affairs, Victoria, said yesterday "It may not be too well realized that our veterans' bureau is a special branch to assist veterans in preparing their claims to the Canadian Pensions Commission."

His report announced the appointment of S. J. Mayzes as pensions advocate.

"I strongly advise all ex-service men and women who have disabilities they feel have been caused or aggravated through war service to present their case to Mr. Mayzes," the assistant administrator said.

A letter to all veterans' organizations said cases of widows claiming widows' pension "are also carefully considered."

"I especially urge veterans of the Second World War not to delay, but to act now while they are still comparatively young," the letter said. "If they consider they have some disability attributable to service the longer the delay, the more difficult to prove the claim.

"All the facilities of the veterans bureau are at your disposal free. Use them," the letter urged.

Siera Leone, a British possession since 1788, has one of the finest harbors in West Africa.

Shorter Week Being Sought By Butchers

Butchers in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster chain and independent stores will seek the five-day, 40-hour week, it was announced yesterday.

The request, coupled with that for an increase in take-home pay, was reported by George Johnston, business agent of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, Local 212 (A.F.L.-T.L.C.). The shorter week is now a pattern in the retail trade, he added.

The 300 workers involved now have a 5½-day, 44-hour week. Two Vancouver department stores earlier had granted the five-day, 40-hour week to members of the union.

Stores affected include Safeway, B. and K. Economy, Super-Valu, Superior, Home Service and independent stores.

Winning Contract

By Howard Schenken
and Richard L. Frey

Most bridge players are allergic to minors (will John L. please note the spelling before he gets hot under the collar?); this kind of hand illustrates one of the reasons why. East didn't find the heart opening that would have given his side two tricks in a hurry, but his lead of the jack of diamonds didn't cost anything because North couldn't find a place to park his heart losers anyway.

Listen to North's quite justified complaint: "Look how careful I was to avoid the three no-trump contract unless you had both red suits well stopped. West would have opened the jack of hearts and they'd have romped off with five tricks before you could do anything about it. But the auction clearly revealed the dangerous hole in the heart suit and got us to five clubs, which we couldn't miss. Alas, we remained there too briefly."

Both sides vulnerable.
North dealer.

3♣	Pass	3◇	Pass
3♣	Pass	4♣	Pass
5♣	Pass	6♣	All Pass

"It looked like you were showing six-four distribution in the black suits and a good hand."

"I might have been slam-hunting," acknowledged North. "You couldn't tell. But you could have let me tell you—by bidding five clubs instead of trapping me with your bids of four and six. As it turned out, you left me no choice between letting you play the hand at three no trumps, down one, or playing it myself at six clubs, with more excitement, but the same result."

Malahat Wrens Off to Cornwallis

Travel and adventure are in store for this group of Wrens, members of H.M.C.S. Malahat, who yesterday left Victoria for two-week training course at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis. They will fly both ways. At frequent intervals throughout summer Wrens of city's naval reserve division will travel in small groups across the country for the summertime training course. Here, pictured minutes before their departure for Patricia Bay Airport yesterday afternoon, are, left to right, Wrens Norah Farmer, Elizabeth Paterson, Gaie Brock, Percia Wilkinson, Nina Mitchell and Elizabeth Timothy.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Malahat Personnel To Travel Far This Summer

BY RAY WORMALD

Air and sea travel involving thousands of miles is in store for many members of Victoria's naval reserve division who will be taking advantage of this summer's training program.

Members of H.M.C.S. Malahat, along with all other naval reserve divisions across the country, are expected to take at least two weeks' concentrated training each year.

Now that Malahat has the escort minesweeper Sault Ste. Marie as its own training vessel, sea training for officers and men is adequately cared for. This year the warship will again carry the reservists on a two-week cruise to California. Many men have already signified their intentions of going on the cruise to Santa Barbara, Santa Catalina and San Francisco. The cruise will start July 5 and end July 20.

And this year, for the first time in reserve groups, members of the Wrens have an opportunity to attend a two-week course at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, near Halifax. Yesterday six Malahat Wrens left Patricia Bay for the eastern base. They are Elizabeth Timothy, 1216 Douglas; Elizabeth Paterson, 1327 Minto; Percia Wilkinson, 3240 Doncaster; Gaie Brock, 900 Park Boulevard; Nina Mitchell, 729 Kisber Avenue.

Yesterday was also departure day for three new entries into the Victoria division. Under a recently adopted system, new entry seamen in the reserve will undergo a special two-week course at H.M.C.S. Starr, at Hamilton, Ont.

Malahat men who left yesterday afternoon for the training centre are Ordinary Seaman Gerald R. MacDonald, 3439 Cook; Frederick W. Raines, 1241 Palmer Road; and Norman W. Milke, 170 Crease Avenue. They will fly to Toronto, and from there will go by bus to H.M.C.S. Starr.

"In addition to providing the actual training, these trips are of considerable value to all participants in travel and general broadening of experience," according to C.P.O. Walter Burch, Malahat's coxswain.

* * *

Orders for tomorrow night's training program: officers—lecture on torpedoes and parade training; engine room branch, lectures on the closed-feed system; communications, lecture; electrical, fixing seamanship, new entries; film and attendance to kit; Wrens, general seamanship instruction.

Controls Ruining Way of Life, Mrs. Harvey Says at Meeting

Too many controls are ruining our way of life, Mrs. Margaret Harvey, Progressive Conservative candidate for Victoria, says.

"There is too much waste and extravagance," she told a political rally in Victoria Friday night.

"The milk board says we have to pay two cents extra for a quart of milk in a cardboard container—why? Because, if the price were the same, most people would take the paper container and this would affect the bottle industry.

"This is control of the worst kind, with little thought for the children and people who need the milk. It is government interference, which is contrary to all principles of free enterprise and freedom," she said.

Berlin Explosion Not Discussed

BERLIN, May 31 (Reuters).—United States officials refused to discuss an explosion today in West Berlin's Kaiser Wilhelm Research Institute, formerly Hitler's atomic research station. An unidentified professor was severely injured and another scientist slightly hurt, unofficial reports said.

U.K Actors Protest Television in Theatres

LONDON, May 31 (Reuters).—British Actors' Equity told the B.B.C. this week to keep television cameras out of the theatres when there is a paying audience present, because actors can't play simultaneously "to the bloke in the gallery and the mac before the screen."

CAME FROM EUROPE

Immigration of Ukrainian settlers from Europe began in 1894 when nine families settled not far from Edmonton.
